RUHR STRIKE SITUATION IS GRAVE

DEEP CONCERN IS NOTED IN ALL QUARTERS

Walkout of 300,000 Miners May Seriously Affect Internal Conditions and Foreign Policy — Labor Minister on Way to Scene.

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 8. —The situation in the Ruhr where 300,000 miners are out because of their refusal to meet the demand of the owners for the addition of an hour to the working day is admittedly serious Government circles evidently are deeply concerned and the hasty departure for the Ruhr last night of Labor Minister Braun in an attempt to settle the conflict, emphasizes the gravity of conditions.

The entire German press is apprehensive that the conflict may react unfavorably against German internal conditions and foreign policy. Fear of disturbances is expressed, it being pointed out that the Ruhr miners are lacking in money and may be driven to hunger to plunder

The Socialist Vorwaerts charges the operators with trying to hide behind their obligations under the agreement with the occupational regime in an effort to gain advantages over the workers.

The Bochum miners federation points out that the demand for a work day of not more than seven hours under ground is mild because a long time is required by most miners to reach their places of work due to the lack of housing facilities and that this condition means in practice a ten or twelve hour working day.

The limited coal reserves in the Ruhr are causing apprehensions of idleness in the big industries in the valley because of lack of fuel should the strike continue for many days The communists are said to be taking advantage of the situation to promote their ends and to be assuming the lead in the strike movement

NO SPECTATORS PRESENT AS OIL CASE RESUMES

For First Time Committee Room Is Destitute—More Evidence Given

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 8 —In a committee-room destitute of spectators, the practial details of coil production on Teapot Dome and Elkhill were described today for the Senate Oil Committee by H. Foster Bain, director of the Bueau of Mines.

In recent weeks the crowds that once packed the hearing room have dwindled steadily, and today for the first time the committee began its public session with no one present except members, witnesses and newspaper men. It was the first meeting in a week.

In order to show that there was oil in Teapot Dome below the second wall creek sand, Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, asked Director Bain about the drilling of a well to the third wall creek sand. The witness said the well was producing about 80 barrels a day.

Seven or eight oil wells have been drilled under the Doheny lease on the Elkhill reserve, the director said and have produced about 1,500,000 barrels. Most of them, he told the committee, were offset wells. The actual average royalty paid by Doheny was 28 per cent. in December, the witness testified, and is now 26 per cent He said there had been no new drilling under the Doheny lease since the Senate investigation began

Director Bain declared the oil in Teapot Dome is not suitable for naval fuel use and could not be econimically prepared for such use. The natural and right course, under the circumstances, he said, was to exchange the Teapot Dom oil for other oil which was suitable for the navy.

The witness made a detailed explanation of the effect of drainage upon naval oil properties.

Guardsmen Patrol Vicinity Where 6 Slayers Are Held

(By the Associated Press.)

AMITE, La., May 8 —But for the presence of National guardsmen patrolling the vicinity of the Parish prison where Natale Deamore, Joseph Rini, Joseph Giglio, Andrea Lamantia, Joseph Bocchio and Roy Leona, condemned to die tomorrow between the hours of noon and 3 p m., for the murder of Dallas Calmes, at Independence three years ago today, are held, there was little outward appearances to indicate early today that within the next 24 hours wide attention would be focused on this little town.

TOWN TOPICS

All of the council committees are meeting today for the purpose of drawing up monthly reports to be submitted to the council meeting to be held Monday night. A slight change was made in the schedule the Public Welfare Committee being called for 4:30 o'clock this afternoon instead of Friday morning. It is understood that this committee will make a report on the housing of inmates of the county almshouse in the city home now in course of construction. The auditor has worked out the per capita based on the added investment which would have to be incurred in proving quarters for them The sum is understood to be more than $40 per month per inmate. The Fiance Committee met at half past ten o'clock this morning and the Public Works Committee is meeting at half past two this afternoon

The city Democratic Executive Committee is to hold a meeting in the near future, it was learned today, for the purpose of setting a date for a mass meeting at which time delegates to the state Democratic convention to be held in Norfolk in June will be elected The time of the committee's meeting has not been determined but the chairman indictated this morning that it would be held shortly.

The Kiwanis Club will hold their fortnightly meeting tonight at the Blue Triangle Tea Room at seven o'clock. Hugh R. Thompson of the Clifton Forge club is to make a talk during the evening He is a former resident of Reidsville, N C, and has many friends here

A decision is expected to be rendered by the Virginia Supreme Court in the case of Thomas Branch and Company against the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills Inc., early in June, it was reliably learned today. This pending action is considered of an unusual importance and officials as well as stockholders in the corporation are awaiting its outcome with keen interest The case recently was re-presented before the full court. On the first appeal some members of the court were absent and no decision was rendered. It is understood that it was decided that the point of law involved was of such importance that the full court should review it further.

The regular grand jury which has been drawn to serve at the term of court beginning next Monday is composed of the following: S. J. Owens, A D. Keen, C B. Davis, T. L. Fulghum, O. R. Fuller, J. J. Walters, R. K Mitchell, J. A Lawson and E B. Withers. Judge Withers, who has been convalescent from an attack of rheumatism and who has been able to be out, suffered a painful recurrence last night, and was reported not quite so well today.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C A will hold their annual monthly meeting at five o'clock tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock, at which time Wade H. Pierce will preside. Routine reports from standing committees will be presented. No date has yet been set for the actual construction of the new wing recently authorized and the impression prevails that this improvement will be delayed until next Spring.

Further steps towards the building of a new hospital with funds left for that purpose by the late John E. Hughes are expected to be taken early in August, at which time it is expected that the $250,000 will be made available to the trustees of the institution. The decision to rebuild on a site to be selected and to dispose of the present hospital, already has been reached after mature consideration. Options are held on several desirable lots but none of these will be decided on until money has been made actually available. As soon as this is done, it is proposed to go forward with the securing of plans for a modern establishment.

The Foreign Work Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association will hold an important meeting at six o'clock tomorrow evening in the institution at which time J. J. McConnell, of Atlanta, foreign work secretary of the organization will appear and deliver an informative address. Mr. McConnell has spent seven years in various cities of India in the role of foreign secretary and is qualified to tell of the work done in the foreign field by the Y. M. C. A. Mr. McConnell will arrive in the city early tomorrow afternoon and will also appear before the board of directors during the afternoon.

The Sandy River concrete and steel bridge which has been in course of construction for some months, is expected to be finished next Tuesday. The final pouring—A 75 feet slab over the central span—will have been completed by that time The last riveting is expected to be finished today After the concrete has been poured the bridge will remain closed for 21 days to allow the concrete to harden.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS NOW PLAN ACTION ON UNIFICATION

(By The Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 8.— With receipt here of official notification by the Southern Methodist college of bishops of the ratification by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Springfield, Mass., of the plan of unification of the two great bodies of Methodists, action by the Southern Methodist Bishops on a call for a special session of the general conference of the Southern Methodist church is expected today or tomorrow A member of the college of bishops stated that if the work of the board of missions permitted the bishops to be absent for an hour or so today the session of the bishops would be held at once; otherwise the college would certainly take up the matter tonight or tomorrow.

FIGHT MOVE TO MODIFY DRY LAW

WORLD COURT REVIVED

NEW TRIBUNAL IS PROPOSED BY SENATOR LODGE

Resolution Proposes Court at the Hague to Which U. S. Would Adhere

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Establishment of a World Court at The Hague, to which the United States would adhere, was proposed today in resolution introduced by Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

For the purpose of creating the new tribunal, President Coolidge will be "respectfully requested to propose the calling of the third Hague conference."

The resolution embodied a complete plan for the proposed court. It would be composed of 16 judges—four of them deputies —who would be selected by an electoral commission.

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler to Make Address to High Graduates

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler has accepted the invitation recently extended him by W. C. Griggs, superintendent of schools to make the commencement address to the graduating class at the high school He is president of William and Mary college and was for some years superintendent of public schools in Richmond. He is known as a speaker of great force. There is some doubt just now as to when the final exercises will be held. From present appearances the regulation number of school days will have been completed by May 27th or May 28th but the school board is to determine this point definitely tonight. If a change is made then Dr. Chandler will be asked if he can come here a day or two earlier.

The city school board will hold its regular monthly meeting in the board's room at Rison Park school at 8 o'clock tonight. he budget which has been finished by the finance committee is coming up for action and if adopted it will be possible to proceed with the election of school teachers. The board also may act on the question of including in the regular public school curriculum manual training and mechanical drawing in the high school and free-hand drawing in the grammar grades, steps advocated by the superintendent of schools. It is likely that there will be general discussion of school needs and the school improving building program.

Huth and Carey Reverse Pleas

(By The Associated Press)

COVINGTON, Ky., May 8.—Walter B. Carey, Canton, Ohio, and M. E. Huth, Alliance, Ohio, two of the four co-defendants of Congressman John W. Langley, Kentucky, on trial in Federal court here on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government through a whiskey transaction in 1921, reversed their pleas of not guilty and entered formal pleas of guilty when court convened today.

A motion by Attorney W. K. Gray, Philadelphia, representing Milton Lipschutz, Philadelphia, another defendant, that all testimony concerning Huth and Carey be stricken, was over ruled.

Huth and Carey were removed from the court room to prepare bonds. It is understood they will not be sentenced until after the trial.

Conn. Governor Is Going to Richmond

(By The Associated Press)

HARTFORD, Conn., May 8.—Governor Templeton, accompanied by his staff and the first company, Governor's foot-guard, left today for Richmond, Virginia, by special train to attend the anniversary celebration of the Richmond blues, the second company, governor's footguard, leaving New Haven for Richmond by special train from that city. On the trip the party will stop at Washington Friday, where the guard will escort Governor Templeton to the White House, where he will pay his respects to the President, who is to review the guard on the lawn of the executive mansion.

JAPANESE CABINET TO RESIGN, SAY REPORTS

(By The Associated Press)

TOKIO, May 8.—More insistent reports that the cabinet intends to resign, owing to prospects of failure in the coming elections are appearing in Japanese newspapers. Influential elements of the privy council are reported to have demanded the resignation on the ground of the government's responsibility in the "diplomatic failure" to prevent adoption of the Japanese exclusion clause of the United States immigration bill.

Vernacular newspapers here quote Premier Kiyoura as admitting the cabinet's responsibility for "failure" regarding the immigration matter.

Rodgers' Crystal Lake

The accompanying illustration shows practically in entirety the swimming pool, which during recent months has been consructed at R. B. Rodgers' amusement park four miles from the city on the old Milton road. He has named it Crystal Lake. The view was taken soon after the pool had been filled. It measures 400 feet by 200 feet and will be opened on May 15th.

WANT BUTLER PUT ON THE G. O. P. SLATE

Friends Urge Him to Run For Vice President With Coolidge

By ROBERT T. SMALL.
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK May 7.— Dr Nicholas May Butler, president of Columbia University is being urged to lead a world-wide movement of his conception of prohibition in this country. The distinguished educators has been receiving hundreds of letters daily since he spoke his mind about the Volstead act and the tenor of most of them is to the effect that there is a widespread reaction to conditions growing out of the prohibition laws, but thus far, the anti-dry movement has lagged for lack of a courageous leader.

Some of Dr. Butler's correspondents are of the opinion that an era of tolerance is about to dawn in the United States and they commend especially the tolerance which has marked Dr Butler's administration of affairs at Columbia, as to race, religion, and temperance The correspondents cite the fact that at the Methodist General Conference, which denounced Dr. Butler's attitude on the Volstead act, there was nevertheless a new spirit of liberality which may result in the lifting of the traditional Methodist ban against dancing and other forms of amusement

There was citation also of the fact that plans were underway to present at the Protestant Episcopal conference of the diocese of Pennsylvania a plea that the present methods of prohibition be replaced by a "sensible and moderate" liquor law.

A few of Butler's friends have been urgin ghim to run for vice president with President Coolidfie on the subject and admit that this word will be law as to the selection of his running mate They are also aware of the fact that the Republicans are looking to the west for a vice presidential nominee. Despite all this enough has been said on the subject to cause Dr. Butler to issue a statement to the effect that in his present frame of mind he would not accept the vice presidential nomination if it were handed to him What may happen between now and the week o fJune 4, the president of Columbia leaves in the lapse of Gods.

Dr Butler is a delegate at large to the Republican national convention and it was said today that he may endeavor to get a place on the committee on resolutions which will draft the party platform If he succeeds in this quest he undoubtedly will make a fight in the committee for some sort of liberal plank in the platform relating to the prohibition situation Dr. Butler feels very keenly about this situation. IHs recent address before the Missouri Society in this city was really but a reiteration of earlier utterances on the subject of prohibition as it was written into the constitution and into the statutes of the United States.

Dr Butler says he has heard from all over the country that conditions have become deplorable under the present workings of the Volstead act and denies he has been blinded to the exact situation in the interior and on the West coast by the prevailing "wetness on the North Atlantic coast

Virtually all of the letters received by Dr Butler praise his valor in making such a frank declaration of his views He has been told many times that if all men in public places who believe as he does would speak as courageously as he has done the anti-dry movement would make rapid headway.

Not all of Dr. Butler's letters are commendiatory however. A small minority of them attack him relentlessly Those who believe in the present law and feel that as much progress in enforcement is being made as could possibly be expected accuse the educator of attempting to tear down the constitution and "invite to anarchy."

Seaboard Makes Only 1 Change In Board of Directors

(By The Associated Press.)

PETERSBURG, Va., May 8.—At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, held here today, only one change was made in the board of directors. W. W. Miller, who has been counsel for the company many years in New York, was elected to the board, which is as follows.

Milton E Ailes, F. Q. Brown, F. N. B Close, James C Colgate, W. W. Miller, S L. Fuller, Mills B. Lane, L. F. Loree, Robert F. Maddox, J. W. Middendorf, Robert L. Nutt, L R. Powell, Jr., Robert C. Ream, S. Davies Warfield, J. P. Taliaferro, A. H. Woodward and B. F. Yoakum.

The only other business transacted was the approving of small contracts.

ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP PRES. PARTINEZ IS FRUSTRATED

(By The Associated Press)

SAN SALVADOR, May 8 — A dispatch from Managua says the Nicaraguan authorities have frustrated an attempt by a group of conservatives and followers of Former President Chamorro to kidnap President Martinez Another plot, providing for the capture of the military barracks in Managua and alleged to have been engineered by the Chamorrists, was also discovered

In consequence of these revelations, the dispatch says the government has transferred several military commanders and is maintaining strict vigilance over all Chamorrists.

PROMISE FILIPINOS THEIR INDEPENDANCE IN 20 YEARS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 8 —A promise of greater autonomy at once and independence in 20 years is held out to the Philippines in a bill favorably reported to the House by its insular affairs committee. Although no place has yet been assigned to it on the legislative program friends of the measure are expected to presr for a vote on it before Congress adjourns

A "commonwealth of the Philippines" would be set up after the drafting of a constitution by a constitutional convention and its acceptance by the qualified electors of the Philippines and during the 20 years of remaining allegiance to the United States, its acts would be subject to review only by the President.

WAYNE WHEELER AND DELEGATION ENTER PROTESTS

WOMAN DOPED AND ROBBED ON BOARD STEAMER

Police Looking For Two Men and Women—Victim In Critical Condition

(By The Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, May 8 —Drugged and robbed by chance acquintances she met on a steamer en route to Baltimore, from Miami, Fla., Loretta Smith, 27, of Jersey City Heights, N. J., is in a critical condition at University Hospital. Police are searching for two men and a women who disappeared when the steamer reached her wharf.

Miss Smith was found unconscious in her state room early this morning. A stewardess, unable to arouse the passenger, notified the ship's surgeon who called a taxicab and took Miss Smith to the hospital. Miss Smith failed to respond to the usual restoratives and the police were notified.

Recovering consciousness for a few minutes about 5 a m., Miss Smith said she had spent the winter at Miami On the steamer she met two men and a woman she said, and the night before the ship reached port the woman suggested a farewell party. Miss Smith said the last thing she remembered was drinking a glass of ginger ale.

She revived long enough, she said, to find herself in the berth in her state room. Her baggage had been looted and her purse and all her money except some small change stolen. Before she could summon help she lost consciousness again.

Reports Read at Convention

(By The Associated Press)

ROANOKE, Va., May 8 —The Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, which began its seventh annual convention at Hotel Roanoke, Tuesday night, this morning received reports of the credentials committee and of the chairman of departments and took up the question of adopting a revised draft of the organizations constitution.

At noon the Federation adjourned to meet later in the Park Theatre for the showing of a reel of citizenship films by an insurance company and an address on American citizenship by Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, of Alexandria, brought forward from yesterday morning's program.

Assembly singing at the morning session was led by the Salem Women's Club under direction of Mrs. George G Peery with Miss Mildred McLaughlin at the piano.

There will be a parliamentary drill this afternoon, an address on the "better homes movement," by Mrs. Mary Stuart Palmer, of Washington, and at four o'clock an automobile drive to the home of Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Salem, courtesy of the Salem Women's Club, for tea.

Body of Mrs. Lee Is Laid at Rest

(By The Associated Press.)

LEXINGTON, Va., May 8.— The body of Mrs Mary Tabb Bolling Lee, was laid to rest in Lee Masoleum today beside that of her husband, Major General W. H F. ("Roonie") Lee and near that of her father-in-law, General Robert E. Lee, after brief commitment services in Lee Chapel at Washington and Lee University. The services were conducted by the Rev. Samuel A. Wallis, rector of the Episcopal church at Alexandria, who was assisted by the Rev Churchill Gibson of the Episcopal church here

All activities at the University were suspended during the hour of the funeral which was attended by the faculty and students and scores of representatives of confederate organizations Members of Sigma Chi fraternity, of which Mrs. Lee's son Dr George Bolling Lee, is a member, serve as active pall bearers

MAN HELD PROVES SON OF PROMINENT CUBAN

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA Ga., May 8 — Ray Garcia one of the three Cubans held at Ocala, Florida in connection with alleged violation of the neutrality law is a son of General Garcia Y Velez, president of the veterans and patriots association of Cuba, it was learned here today

Several days ago when asked the direct question at Ocala if he was the son of the Cuban leader Garcia declined to talk

He was arrested with two other Cubans who were said to have been receiving instructions in aviation with the idea of going to Cuba and assisting in the revolt against the Zayas government

The men have, as yet, been accorded no hearing and reports received here today were to the effect that court action seeking their release this week is contemplated

The men are being held under $3,000 bail and are scheduled to be tried May 15 The planes are said to belong to the West Coast Air Line Company The other two Cubans being held are J Fernandez and Robert Martinez

TAMPA Fla May 8 — Salvator V. M Ybor, today confirmed the report that one of the three Cubans held for trial at Ocala is the son of General Garcia Y Velez, leader of the Veterans and Patriots Association of Cuba

"The three came [illegible] recently and asked [illegible] go up with airplanes to become [illegible]" said Mr. Ybor "I gave them the permission although I am not the head of the commission

Express Opposition to Modification of Prohibition Laws to Committee—Hearing to Permit Beer Continues.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 8.— Modification of the prohibition laws was vigorously opposed today by a delegation headed by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, which appeared before the House Judiciary committee. The committee has under consideration a number of bills which would permit 2.75 per cent. beer.

Foes of prohibition use these bills as camoflouge in order to make impossible the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment," Wheeler charged.

At the opening of the hearing Francis C. Harley, chairman of the National Liberal Alliance, former mayor of Astoria, Oregon, wound up the argument for modification, declaring he spoke for seven million people, who registered their ballots through a referendum of his organization. If allowed to vote on the question, the vast majority of the people of the whole country, he said, would vote for modification.

A tilt occurred between Representative Foster, Ohio, and the witnesses over the voting on modification in Michigan and Ohio. Foster challenging the statement that ballots had been taken by boxes placed in churches. Harley was authorized to submit evidence later.

Three Are Held For Gas Station Theft

Three youths of Bannerville, charged with breaking into the D. M. I. filling station, a few nights ago, were held for the grand jury this morning following a hearing. The men charged are Irvin T. Holt, Arthur Branscomb and Murrell Motley. Bond of $100 each was required by the court. There was evidence by Harry Duncan, a D. M. I. student, that he saw three men carrying out material from the station at night, but he was so far away he could not identify them. They entered a five passenger Ford car, which started towards North Carolina, making a peculiar noise as it ran. A short time later after Duncan, accompanied by others had established that a robbery had taken place, a car making a noise similar to that previously heard returned at a fast clip. The police were notified and it was trailed by distinguishing tire marks to Bannerville, where the arrests were made.

"Co-Op" Manager Dies In Richmond

News was received here today by leaders of the co-operative marketing movement of the death in Richmond last night of F. D. Williams, general manager of the sun-cured and dark tobacco department of the Tobacco Growers' Co-Operative Marketing Association. Mr. Williams, who is understood to have been a native of Richmond, was taken critically ill in Winston-Salem, N. C., last Saturday night and was hastened to his Richmond home where he was removed to a hospital. Death is ascribed to an acute form of gall stones. Mr. Williams' work did not bring him in the bright belt and for that reason he was not generally known here. Officials speak of him, however, as being highly efficient and as having been of great value to the organization in its formative stages.

STORY OF SUBMARINES SMUGGLING LIQUOR FALSE

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK May 7—Persistent rumors that submarines were being used in smuggling liquor off the south shore of Long Island today proved to be nothing more than fish stories What were thought to be the conning towers of undersea craft were only the dorsal fins of porpoises, disporting themselves in their playground

Spurred by reports of submarines sighted off shore, prohibition agents set out in a fast launch last night to investigate They sighted a supposed submarine and gave chase For some time they pursued the object, but it repeatedly disappeared

When the light came the agents got close enough to ascertain that it was a porpoise.

Predestinado!

ALMA REED WEARING THE FATALISTIC MAYA BELL GIVEN TO HER BY FELIPE CARRILLO (INSET)

By HAROLD MATSON

NEW YORK, May 8—Sacrificed to the Maya'

Could a strange influence of ancient fatalism extend a sinister arm down through the ages to mark a man as a sacrifice to his people?

And by the sam token could that power reach out to involve an American woman in the intricacies and mysteries of an ancient superstition?

Perhaps it is but coincidnce, yet there is something of the occult in the romance of Alma Sullivan Reed, an American writer and Felipe Carrillo who was governor of Yucatan, Mexico

A tiny copper bell tinkling an echo of death links the life of Alma Reed to that of the ancient Maya Down through the ages the amulet has come to tell the story of the maidens of Maya who were thrown to death in the Well of Human Sacifice

And today Alma Reed wears the bell, a symbol of love and death It was given to her by Carrilo with the engraved message 'Remember the Maya, lovely Alma Red"

It was such a bell as the Maya beauties wore when marked for sacrifice.

"Predestinado,"—she pople called their leader Carillo Prdestined may also have been the fate of Alma Reed'

Years before the bell tinkled from her throat she found her life being interwoven with the Maya, with Mexico The Mexican government officially honored her when she befriended Mexicans in California Then the fascination of archeology for her drew her to Yucatan where traces of the ancient civilization of the Maya are being excavated

There she met Felipe Carrillo, hero of the people—the 'predstined"

There was a spontaneous love, yet enriched with the glory of the Maya who lived thousands of years before

Alma Reed and Carrillo were to have married last January! While she was in San Francisco her heart beating with the tinkling Maya bell the de la Huerta rebels captured and executed Carrillo

Carrillo who had freed the Maya from persecution was sacrificed for his people

And now Alma Reed feels that her life is dedicated to the Maya, dedicated to studying the ancient civilization that Mexico, and the world may know better of itself She is leaving New York son for further studies in Yucatan

'Remember the Maya she reads on her death bell 'How can I ever forget?' With each step the bell tinkles just as though it were a part of me"

SOUTH CAROLINA MAN IS ARRESTED AS A FUGITIVE

Another fugitive has been picked up by the Danville police department whose net seems to enmesh so many He is George Morler wanted at Laurens, S C where he is alleged to have escaped from a road gang where he had served 13 months of an eighteen-months sentence for violation of the prohibition laws Sheriff S C Reid of Laurens wrote to the Danville department asking the arrest and detention of Morlor. Last night Sergeant J. H. Martin and Patrolmen Bowles and Dameron located Morler and arrested him at his boarding-house in North Danville, and he was taken into custody and lodged in jail to await the action of the South Carolina authorities

Morler, who had secured employment here, admitted his identity but declined to go back to the Palmetto State without a requisition Accordingly steps will be inaugurated at once to have the proper papers prepared and sent to Danville whereupon the Laurens authorities will come for the man

LITTLE HOPE OF ARREST IN ASSAULT CASE

An appreciable lessening in the vigor of the search for two unidentified men who are said by Mrs Will Taylor to have attacked her near her home at Stokesland on Monday morning was reported at Schoolfield yesterday Officers who have been working on the case taking the woman's statement as a basis for their activity have virtually admitted that there is no chance of being able to arrest them Even if the men alleged to have committed the offense were found it is said that Mrs Taylor could not identify them County officers were reported yesterday as keeping their ears and eyes on the alert for something which might afford a tangible clue but is generally agreed that there is little chance of any arrest being made

Condemned Men Assert Innocence

(By The Associated Press.)

AMITE, La., May 7.—Five men stoutly asserting their innocence and a sixth who maintains that he already is dead and who attempted suicide early today in New Orleans are in the Tangipahoa Parish jail here tonight, awaiting execution at noon Friday. The prisoners, convicted for the murder of Dallas Calmes, at Independence three years ago, when Calmes frustrated an attempt to rob the Merchants and Plants Bank, left New Orleans this morning where they have been held for nearly three years and accompanied by a detail of national guardsmen arrived here without incident two hours and a half later.

At Scene of Anticipated Crime

When the train stopped at Independence, the car occupied by the prisoners halted directly before the bank they had planned to rob. Next to the bank was the restaurant operated by Calmes, who was killed by one of the men in the yard at the rear when he investigated a noise that aroused him from his sleep.

Because of threats to wreck the train enroute, officials of the Illinois Central Railroad announced after its arrival that not since President Wilson made his trip through the South had a nyrtian on that road received such attention The special coaches bearing the condemned men, soldiers and civil officers were searched from end to end in New Orleans yesterday They were guarded by railroad special agents through the night The train was preceded about three hundred yards all the way from New Orleans by a motor car which contained a squad of heavily armed detectives

Confessor Attempts Suicide

Roy Leona, of Brooklyn, New York, who confessed that he was the leaded of the robbery expedition and that he alone fired the shots which killed Calmes attempted suicide in his cell at New Orleans shortly before daybreak. He had stabbed himself five times with a knife when a guard leaped into the cell and overpowered him One knife thrust, penetrated a lung but his condition is not regarded as serious

Joseph Bocchio, requested permission to speak to the widow of the slain man after his arrival here but a message sent to her home in Independence brought the reply that she was on the verge of prostration George Harpolde, her brother-in-law came here late today and conferred with Bocchio in the presence of District Attorney Matt Allen and Sheriff Bowden Newspapermen were excluded from the conference but it was announced later Bocchio had made a last plea for clemency

The troops from New Orleans went on duty about the fall, establishing a dead line within a 75-foot radius Another company will arrive tomorrow night or Friday morning to assist in policing the town the day of the executions

Gretna

GRETNA, May 7.—The annual senior class program of the Benjamin Franklin Literary Society of the Gretna High school will be rendered in the school auditorium Friday evening May 9, at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend and a large crowd is expected to be present. The school will close May 30.

"Mothers Day" will be observed with a special program at Gretna Baptist church Sunday morning May 11, at 11 o'clock. If the weather permits the church will doubtless be filled to its capacity. Every one is invited to attend this service.

The farmers have hauled a large quantity of fertilizer from Gretna for the past two weeks. Many have finished planting their corn crop and are preparing their tobacco land, although every little tobacco is expected to be planted before the middle of this month. Many of the farmers are complaining because they do not know when to expect another payment on their 1922 and 1923 crops of tobacco and unless another payment is made soon, there will be much dissatisfaction among the Co-operative farmers There seems to be more dissatisfaction now than at any time since the farmers organized, and the faith of some of the former strong members has begun to waver as to the future progress of the association.

The Junior Sewing Club accompanied by Mrs. L. A. McClaugherty hiked to Vaden's mill Tuesday afternoon where they enjoyed a picnic supper. The Home Economics class under the supervision of Miss Bertha Wilson entertained the faculty of the Gretna High school at Vaden's mill the same afternoon where they also enjoyed a picnic supper, fishing, and joy riding.

Miss Gerdie Harper of Dry Fork and Miss Minnie Mathews of Stoneville, N C, also Mr. A. B. Burton of South Boston were week-end guests of Mrs. H R. Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McClaugherty of Roanoke motored to Gretna Sunday and were guests of Dr. and Mrs L. A. McClaugherty.

Hart to Make Commencement Talk at H. S.

(Special to The Bee)

SOUTH BOSTON, May 8.— Hon. Harris Hart, superintendent of public instruction for the state of Virginia will deliver the commencement address at the C. H. Friend High school. It is indeed significant that such a busy man should see fit to cancel other engagements to address the students of the High school at this time. It will be remembered that Mr. Hart was to have delivered the dedicatory address, but on account of pressing business affairs, it was impossible for him to be present on the occasion. Mr. Hart will speak in the auditorium of the High school, at 8 o'clock on the evening of June 2nd, just prior to the senior class exercises.

Rev. E. W. Elliott of Virginia, Va., who is the father of one member of the senior class, will preach the Baccalaureat sermon, Sunday, June 1st.

The speakers representing the senior class, will be: Misses Lightfoot Jordan, Florine Glenn, Elizabeth Bass, Hazel Elliott and Mr. Charles Hardy.

The month of April according to reports from the principals shows the highest average on the part of the students, during the school session. Seven boys and eighteen girls made averages ranging from 90 to 98. It is also of interest to the parents to know that out of an enrollment of 147 students, during the month, four failed in all classes two in four, seven in three, fifteen in two, thirty-seven in one, fifty-seven passed on all their work and the remaining twenty-five were superior pupils.

Miss Mary Barksdale, the efficient director of literary activities, left for Charlottesville today, accompanied by the county championship team, to compete for the state honors, May 9 and 10. They are, debaters, Misses Thelma Loftis and Florine Glenn, girl's public speaking contest, Miss Frances Noblin, boy's reading contest, Eephriam Hill. The interest manifested by the citizens as a whole, in the recent literary programs, have been somewhat disappointing to the school officials.

In his talk last Monday morning on the importance of music in the secondary school, R. L. Lacy told of the part that music is playing today in the school currculum and emphasized the special vocational and individualistic values resulting from the study of music. Rev. R. R. Phelps on Tuesday morning spoke on the value of music in life. He portrayed in his usual original manner the psycholoica lcharacter making and aesthetic values of music. The various programs have been exceedingly interesting, and the committee who arranged the programs for National Music Week deserve special credit for their work.

HALIFAX FARMERS EXPECTED TO PLANT LARGE COTTON CROP

(Special to The Bee)

SOUTH BOSTON, May 8.— Indications are that a large crop of cotton will be planted in Halifax county this year, and that the tobacco crop will be considerably curtailed. A large number of farmers are preparing their land for cotton, altho the majority of them will plant some tobacco in connection with the cotton, thereby gaining the advantage of having two money crops instead of one. All of the available cotton seed in the county has been purchased, and the seed is now being ordered from other places. More than 100 cotton planters have been sold in the county.

There is much activity among the farmers in preparing their land, which has been considerably delayed on account of the recent rains, however, it is thought that they will not be more than ten or fifteen days late setting their tobacco plants. The plants are in splendid condition, and many of the beds will be ready for the withdrawal of the plants in the next week or ten days. Farm labor is extremely scarce thruout the county, which condition has been brought about by the high wages paid by the road construction forces and other public works.

There was a steady downpour of rain in South Boston and vicinity all day yesterday. Traveling salesmen coming into the city thru the country stated that the roads were unusually slick in some places.

WOMAN ARRIVES TO DIRECT PLAY "KATHLEEN"

Miss Margery M. Heberling, whose home is in Iowa City, Iowa, arrived in the city, Tuesday morning, and is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gates. Miss Heberling is the representative of the John B. Rogers Producing Company, and will direct the rehearsals of the musical comedy "Kathleen," which will be produced by students of te high school, May 22 and 23. More than 100 students representing the South Boston high school, will be in the cast. Rehearsals are being had every afternoon and evening, and Miss Heberling is padidly whipping the members of the cast into shape. The scenery and costumes which vary from the simplest togs of rural life to the latest evening costumes, will arrive from Princeton, W. aV., next week. This promises to be one of the best local talent productions of the year.

In connection with her arrival, a rather unusual and at the same time amusing incident took place. The John B. Rogers Producing Company had advised the officials of the C. H. Friend high school that their Mr. Moncrieth would arrive here on the 9:20 a. m. train, Tuesday morning to direct the rehearsals. A reception committee composed of teachers and students of the high school went to the station to meet Mr. Moncrieth and pilot him to the school building. The train arrived but to their dismay no trousered individual with the likeness of a theatrical producer detrained here. The committee returned to the school and reported that Mr. Moncrieth had failed to put in his appearance. After holding a pow wow, they came to the conclusion that he had missed connection somewhere, and that he would be along later.

About two hours later the agent for the Southern Railway Company, delivered a little lady to the school, who seemed to be somewhat exhausted and played out. Imagine the surprise of the ones who met the train, when she introduced herself as Miss Margery Heberling, of the John Rogers Producing Company. She was already operating in the South and the company changed its plan and decided to send her here from Vicksburg, Miss., instead of Mr. Moncrieth, but they had failed to notify the school officials of the change. Miss Heberling says that she had a hard time finding the school building and to get some one to take her there. Finally the agent for the railroad discovered that she was in distress and volunteered his services to extracate her fro mthe dilemma.

JAMES VAUGHAN DIES IN HOSPITAL IN FLORIDA

James Vaughan, 77, died in a hospistal in Arcadia, Florida, at 12:20 p. m., last Monday. His home is at Paces, Virginia, and he was visiting in Florida when he became ill. His body is expected to arrive at Paces today, and the funeral services and interment will be there Friday, afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Vaughan is a retired railroad man, and was agent for the Southern Railway Company, at Paces for a number of years. He is survived by his widow, Mary Ann Vaughan and several children.

FIELD AND TRACK MEET WILL BE HELD MAY 13TH

The annual field and track meet for Halifax county will be held at Edmunds Park, Halifax, Tuesday, May 13. Seven or eight schools will take part in this contest, and the boys and girls from the South Boston schools are looking forward to the day with a gre at deal of pleasure. The school making the most number of points, will be awarded a beautiful loving cup. The cup is now held by the Halifax high school. In accordance with the original plans, the school holding the cup the most number of times in ten years is entitled to keep it as a permanent trophey.

BALL GAME POSTPONED

The baseball game scheduled yesterday between the Clarkesville and South Boston high schools, was postponed on account of rain. The local team will play Danville high school in Danville, Friday, May 9, and the Chatham high school team here, Saturday, May 10.

CONCERT TO BE GIVEN

A concert which will be rendered at the high school auditorium, at 8 o'clock, Friday evening, will close the special programs that were arranged for the students in the observance of National Music Week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bass are visiting friends and relatives in Winston-Salem, this week.

CHICAGO MEN GOING OFF ON UNIQUE QUEST

Will Journey to South Seas to Bring Back Climbing Fish and Find Trade Route

By OWEN L. SCOTT

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

CHICAGO, May 7.— Not gold nor gems, but tree climbing fish and a trade route to the South Seas, are the lures that have stirred inland Chicago to recruit her first sea adventures who set forth this summer on their unique quest.

Never before has a ship sailed from a great lakes port for New Orleans, the Panama Canal, and the open sea.

But drawn irrestitibly by the call of the tree-climbing fish, a ship will try it within the next few weeks, blazing a trail through the Chicago drainage canal and down the Illinois and Mississippi Rivers to the ocean. Then ho! For the land of the climbing fish.

"We're going to bring back for the Chicago aquarium something that will make people open their eyes," says Wm. Hale Thompson, former mayor, who is interested in the venture to the extent of $25,000.

"This fish we're after, when it gets hungry comes out of the water, gambols on the sand, climbs trees for bugs, jumps three or four feet for grass hoppers and eats butterflies for dessert."

Not onl ythe ex-mayor, but zoologists at the University of Chicago vouch for the existence of the tree-climbing fish. Captain A. J. Duken, who is to command the vessel that sets sail July 4, for the South seas has seen then. He describes the finny creatures as being "just like any other fish—six to fourteen inches long,—with scales, but wit happaratus to breath air."

Former Mayor Thompson, however, takes a broader view of the expedition that is to carr yfour Chicago adventurers 14,000 miles from home to the Malay archipelago, traveling all the distance in a 68 foot sail boat.

"We're out for the fish all right but at the same time want to show Chicago traders that they have a route open to the sea and to new markets" he said. "The Panama Canal put the middiewest a thousand miles further away from Eastern markets— it showed the absolute necessity of a direct route to world ports. Captain Duken and his crew will sail the first boat through the navigable drainage canal, down the navigable Illinois River and the Mississippi to New Orleans. It will show what can be done.

"There's going to be a big celebration and picnic for 25,000 people July 4, the sailing date. Let the people know you're out after tree climbing fish and they'll be there to set the ship on its way. Tell them you are going after trade and nobody would know the diference—you would not get any attention. We expect a crowd of 100,000 to watch the boat set out."

Captain Duken, who has just about finished building his boat, says it will be christened on Decoration Day. He is to have a crew of 3 men besides himself—a moving picture camera operator, taxidermist and newspaperman. These four will sail the craft to the South Seas, where a Malay crew will be recruited to relieve the captain and his men for shore duty.

The movie man is to take motion pictures of the tree climbing fish—the taxidermist is to mount dead specimens and preserve live ones, while the newspaperman is scheduled to tell the world about the findings. Except for the newspaperman, the crew has been recruited.

STORM WARNINGS

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL WITHDRAWN

(By The Associated Press.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 7.—"The Thaw millions are too much for a working girl to combat."

Such was the declaration here tonight of Evelyn Nesbit, cabaret entertainer, in announcing she had withdrawn her opposition to efforts of Harry K. Thaw to regain his freedom. He was recently declared sane by a jury in Brooklyn. Miss Nesbit denied that any settlement had been made upon herself or upon her son, Russell.

Judge John Monaghan had set next Monday for argument on the appeal of a jury's decision which declared Stanford White's slayer sane. The application was made by William A. Gray of Philadelphia, counsel for Miss Nesbit.

"Announce to the world that Evelyn Nesbit was never more fit to take care of herself, but Russell must be provided for under any circumstances" said Thaw's former wife.

Miss Nesbit said that she had written to Mr. Gray of her decision and had received an acknowledgement from his office in his absence.

"My decision in the matter is final," she declared. "I hesitated a long time before reaching a decision, but realized it was no use for a working girl to battle the Thaw millions. I haven't the money to do it, with any degree of success. With the withdrawal of the objection on the part of trustees of the estate, it leaves the whole burden of expense to me. I am not earning good money, but thousands count and not hundreds against the big odds which one must face in a case of this nature.

"This Thaw case has been dragging along for years and it will continue to drag for years more. I am awfully tired and sick of the whole business. But a mother will battle against any odds when her son is concerned and Thaw will have to make some provisions for him."

Watch Out!

Sam—That couple runs a cleaning and pressing establishment."

Bill—You're spoofin' me.

Sam—No, she cleans his pockets while he is pressed for money.

What's Going on in the World

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART

What looks like a bad rebellion has started in Cuba. The government's pretty poor. It's offended powerful Americans, too. President Coolidge has forbidden arms exports to the rebels, but they're certain to get them. If civil war develops, sooner or later America surely must interfere — ticklish work.

• • •

Japan

The White House announces President Coolidge favors excluding Japanese immigrants, not mere restriction. Secretary of State Hughes is on record against exclusion. It's rumored he'll resign if definitely overruled.

• • •

Alaska

Though Secretary of Commerce Hoover denies there's an Alaskan salmon-canning monopoly, the president has ordered prompt steps to protect the fisheries there. Alaskan Territorial Delegate Sutherland adds to his Commerce Department complaints the charge that it squelched prosecution of canners who sold the government bad salmon for soldiers during the war.

• • •

Daugherty

Coolidge sides with the investigators in the case ex-Attorney General Daugherty has started to enjoin an inquiry into his failure to prosecute anti-monopoly law violators. That is, the president has ordered Daugherty's successor, Attorney General Stone, to fight the injunction case.

• • •

Wets and Drys

Dry Commissioner Haynes has put the law's ban on fresh fruit juices in homes, lest they ferment.

The House Judiciary Committee, discussing proposed "2.75 per cent beer" legislation, was scandalized by Judge Klecka of Baltimore, a witness who told of representatives and senators who, though politically dry, relish their drinks."

Representative Cellar, New York, declared he's seen a dry congressman drunk on the House floor.

Relital At A. C.

The annual recital by the pupils of Miss Louise Paulson, which was given at Averett College, Tuesday evening May 6th, was presented before a large audience of patrons and friends who are well acquainted with the work of Miss Paulson, and who appreciate the high standard of her work in teaching music to children

The pupils, on this occasion, rendered all selections in a manner that proved the best training and the orchestra did particularly well in the rendition of their numbers.

The pupils taking part in the program were Misses Della Blalock, Pauline Dalton, Gennilla Atkins, Marie Noderer, Ida Mandel, Margaret Arey, Anne Harrison, Rose Rosenburg and Ellis Halperin, Meriwether Jones, Buddie Rippe, Emmett Glasgow, Randolph Bradley, Herman Koplen, Sydney Newman, Daniel Klaff

The program closed with.

Last Meeting Of P. T. A

The last meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association of Danville High school, which will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the school, will be an event of unusual interest for several reason, the first of which is the fact that it is the last meeting at which Prof Sidney B Hall will preside as principal of the school and all members of the association wish to be present as earnest of their appreciation of his services in the past. A second reason is, that the High school Glee Club

League of Women Voter's Convention.

"What women voters want is summed up in a report of the League of Women Voters Convention, held at Buffalo April 24-29"

First, no more decisive answer could be given to the question

"Is Woman Suffrage a Failure?" than the meeting of the League of Women Voters in national convention in Buffalo this week hese women are not content "to let George do it"—they are not after patronage, there was not a word of self-seeking in their debates it is quite evident that they are not fooled and led around by the nose by politicians, as has been claimed They are not disturbed by the outcry that they are now moving fast enough and making spectacular changes since they have the vote Neither are they blase or discouraged

They are studying government with the eyes of the housekeeper and are trying to see how its process can be made more orderly and efficient, how public interest can be increased in public affairs and a large vote be made to express itself They are planning to help make a more intelligent electorate They are giving of themselves and their own time, effort and money to help a patriotic citizens to make this a better country to live in They are not fanatics or extreminists, they are particularly well groomed and well dressed they are both old and young, their lack of self-consciousness is noticeable and they express themselves clearly and with no waste of words

We wish that some of the gentlemen who are skeptical about women in politics and also those who are pessimistic about the future of the country could spend a day at a league convention They would agree with John W Davis that there is no more hopeful sign in the life of the nation today than the League of Women Voters

Such a program furnishes an answer to the question What are Women voters thinking about and working for? What do women want?

What kind of women are we thinking about is answered by Mrs Maud W[illegible] Park in a passage from her presidential address which defines the type of women and the type of organization the League is all at once

The League of Women Voters from the beginning has stood for step by step progress. It has chosen to be a middle of the road organization in which each person of widely differing [illegible] views might work out [illegible] program of definite ad[illegible] they could agree It [illegible] to lead a few women [illegible] rather to lead [illegible] a little way at a time [illegible] belief that no prob[illegible] solved [illegible] the average [illegible] As their answer about the kind [illegible] the movement is the [illegible] the press representative [illegible] of the convention [illegible] They are [illegible] they are [illegible] competent [illegible] new ideas [illegible] because [illegible] Maud Wood [illegible] the first [illegible] the [illegible] received a [illegible] from the League [illegible]

FASHION NOTES

FASHIONABLE

Buttons are most fashionable for trimming now, used in rows or even worked into embroidery

COLOR SCHEMES

The large colorful motifs in cretonne are being successfully transplanted from their native fabric and appliqued on linen or silk frocks.

HAS MANY USES

With a scarf it is quite possible to make a street costume of almost any frock

OSTRICH FEATHERS

Ostrich has returned with a vengeance this year, not for hatas, but on gowns and wraps for afternoon and evening

ALPACA FROCKS

Plaid alpaca frocks have narrow white collrs of pique or handkerchief linen and belts of bright colored patent leather

USE OF FLOUNCES

Flounces are used most interestingly on the latest French importations They rarely go all the way around and are most irregular in their ways

NEW SHADE

A new shade of red that is very smart in connection with white or black or combinations of black and white is called lobster ad is just the tint of the well cooked animal.

BENGALINES

As a relief from crepes and satins this season we have the bengalines and silk alpacas which make the smartest possible coat dresses and tailored models

COLORED FRINGES

Red and purple ostrich fringes are used on a striking dress of red georgette crepe

CHESKED TAFFETA

Red and white checked taffeta lines the cape and trims the skirt of a three-piece costume of white silk alpaca

expressions of their confidence and admiration

Before the close of the convention a telegram was received announcing that the child-labor amendment, one of the two major measures on which they have been working during the past year, had passed the House by a big vote, and in exactly the form the league endorsed.

Miss Redford Hostess

Miss Gertrude Redford entertained very delightfully at bridge last evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs C. W Pritchett After the game and the prize for top score, a lovely bridge set, had been awarded to the winner, each guest was presented with a gift adapted to some individual eccentricity of the recipient, and much genuine merriment followed because of the cleverness, not only of the gifts but also for the original verses accompanying them As a surprise to the hostess and in retaliation, a few of the guests who had gotten wise to her plans, had arranged to present her with a little skit on the "House That Jack Built," paraphrasing the nursery rhyme to suit the occasion Mrs. C W. Pritchett and Miss Ellen Harvie assisted the hostess in serving delightful refreshments in two courses Those present were: Misses Bernice Booth, Mary Orgain, Charlotte Crews, Margaret Jordan, Ellen Harvie, Mrs. Sydney Pruden of Greensboro; Robert Douthat, Ernest Marchand, Dillard Ley, Charles Williamson, Everett Carter, Jimmie Hayes, Bland Perkinson

CRIME'S THE BUNK, OPINES GIRL BANDIT

(By NEA Service.)

RED WING, Minn, May 7—Caroline Peterson, 20 on her way to prison, says

"An investment in crime is the bunk It is a game you cannot beat Be happy where you are and don't for a second think there is any pleasure to be gained from crime The currency you steal turns to tinsel, And that's that"

Caroline and her sister Alice 19 grew tired of Main street, Hastings, Minn They read about the flapper bandits in the cities formed an alliance with two boys Paul Birchen and Herbert Steley and held up sucessfully a taxi driver Next day they were caught

A week after their adventure began the two bobbed-hair bandits were on their way to state prison to serve a one-to-ten-year sentence and the boys, five to 40 years

Error Writ Is Granted In Auto Seizure Case

The Virginia Court of Appeals has granted a writ of error in a case tried last April in the circuit court of Pittsylvania and one which has elicited peculiar interest among the legal fraternity of North Carolina. The case is that of M F Smith of Raleigh, N C whose twin-six Packard car valued at $3 000 was captured by Pittsylvania officers with a large load of liquor Efforts were made by the owner to regain possession of the car and it was in evidence before Judge Turner Clement who heard the case, that Smith had in good faith rented the machine was brought into Virginia with or for liquor and was seized by the officers the occupants of the car making their escape and remaining unidentified.

Judge Clement in his decision held that the car would be confiscated on the ground that title to the machine was not recorded with the Secretary of the Commonweolth The defense took the stand that there is no law requiring a car owner in North Carolina to register his machine in the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth of Virginia

The writ of error was granted on this point and M K Harris will go to Richmond and argue the case, when a date is set for a hearing Attorneys from different points in North Carolina have been waiting the outcome of this case with great interest the issue being considered of considerable importance from a legal point of view.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

Was glad to get your telegram, old man, for it told me that you were really on the road to recovery Both Leslie and I are very, very glad that you are going to spend some of the time of your convalescence in our city, and we wish most heartily that we had room in that little apartment of ours to put you up

You did not state when you are coming, consequently I am writing to say that Leslie is called to New York this evening to welcome her parents home You remember her younger sister, Alice? She is going to marry that guy that was so sweet on Leslie I wish him joy with her, but if he was fond of Leslie I can't understand why he could transfer his affections to that amoitious, self-centered, egotistical little mortal Between you and me I bet she roped him in She is sure to be one of those managing women, and I pity Whitney from the bottom of my heart

Of course I haven't said anything of this to Leslie, for I am sure she admires her sister very much. I'll bet, however, in the future she will be happier if she doesn't see much of the Whitneys

Leslie hopes that you will not come t ous until after she has returned from New York She won't be there out two or three days however In the meantime my mother is coming over She will not stay at our house (she was quite horrified to find out that we hadn't a guest chamber waiting for somebody to occupy it) We, however, were able to find her a small apartment one that Leslie's mother occupied when she was here

I don't know how long mother will stay, but she is bringing her nurse and companion with her and I fancy there will be many times that she will wish to be alone Consequently I think the arrangement is better than as if she were cooped up in our apartment with Leslie, the baby as well as myself, whom you know am not always the easiest person to live with

I wonder if I talked to you very much about my secretary, Mrs Sally Atherton, when I was down there Of course I know I mentioned her to you quite frequently, but did I tell you anything about her peculiar sentimental biases She came back from the funeral of her husband the day I returned, and settled down immediately to the routine of business She wouldn't allow me to mention her husband's name to her—told me that he had been a stranger almost to her for a long while

I want you to meet her. Syd I think you will be fascinated by her I have never had a man come into my office that could keep his eyes off of her, and yet she is not a pretty woman, and pays very little attention to her clothes Her hair is bobbed and straight, and she mostly dressed in tweed suits and yet with all her assumption of manliness, she is the most feminine thing I have ever known in my life Sht stirs your senses before sho speaks

Hastily,
JACK.

No excuse for moth-holes now!

You couldn't help it before in spite of all the different ways you tried to prevent moth damage. But now science has discovered the real cause and the real cure for moth-holes. It's the tiny white worms that hatch out of moth eggs—not the moth itself—that eat up your woolens. Larvex is the new, scientific way to prevent them. Odorless, stainless, harmless—it does nothing in the world to your clothes except make them absolutely inedible to these tiny pests. Easy to apply, no packing necessary—not a single moth-hole again! COULD NOT WALK BECAUSE OF PAIN

Bad Case of Woman's Illness Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Missouri.—"I had such a bad case of female trouble that I could not walk because of the pains from inflammation My back was all done up I could hardly bend, could not go up stairs because of weakness, and no one could possibly be in worse shape than I was. I have taken twe[illegible] bottles of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am a strong woman now and can work down any of my neighbors. They wonder how I can do so much work. I dare say that I have recommended your medicine to a thousand women. A little book was thrown at my door, and that is how I first learned of it."—Mrs D M Beauchamp, 1104 Morrison Avenue, St Louis, Mo.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NATIONAL RADIO SERMONS

Rev. James E. Freeman, famous Episcopallan bishop of Washington, has been working on a plan to broadcast sermons by eminent clergymen and laymen all the way across the country from the National Cathedral at Washington.

Doctor Freeman has been conferring with Marconi, Lee De Forest, William Jennings Bryan and others on this plan. He believes radio some day may be the means of bringing about something like spiritual unity in this land of many creeds.

Had Itching Tetter On Hands 17 Years Cuticura Healed

"My husband was troubled with tetter on his hands. It itched badly and the skin on the palms of his hands would break open. When he put them in water they hurt terribly. He could not work in the winter time because his hands were so sore. Had been that way for seventeen years.

"He began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped him, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Stinson, Allardt, Tenn.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap and occasional touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soothe and heal. They are ideal for the toilet, as is also Cuticura Talcum.

Sample Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Try our new Shaving Stick.

Local Matron Suprised at Remarkable Results Brought About By New Herbal Tonic "DRECO."

Another West Durham lady has been added to the long list of those in this section praising Dreco. She is Mrs. W. J. Hall, Box 183, West Durham, N. C., a well known member of the Methodist Church who relates her experiences in the following signed statement.

"I was so weak and rundown before taking Dreco that I had to just force myself to do my housework. I felt tired and listless all the time and was always suffering from some kind of illness. I lost weight an dfelt all in "The 3 bottles of Dreco I bought certainly fixed me up fine, though and now I fele so well I go about my work singing all day long. I've gained 10 lbs., in weight and my stomach, liver and bowels are in better shape than they've been in for 10 years."

Indigestion, constipation, headaches, spots before the eyes, gas, rheumatsim, backaches, impure blood and a hundred other ills quickly give way to the natural juices of the 12 remarkable herbs, barks, leaves roots and herbs from which Dreco is made. Dreco increases the appetite, promotes sound refreshing sleep and mawes one healthy, vigorous and vitally alive.

Dreco is made by the famous David H. Fulton & Bro., Laboratories, Baltimore, Md., and is being specially introduced in this section by the Patterson Drug Co., and sold by druggists everywhere.—adv.

U. S. INDUSTRIES SUFFER BY DEMAND FOR SPECIAL GOODS

(By The Associated Press)

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 7.—American industries are losing ten million dollars annually through the demand for special shades of dress materials, A. E. Foote, of the division of simplified practice of the United States Chamber of Commerce, today told the annual convention here of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association. He also declared that narrow widths of dress goods were going out of demand as both home and trade dressmakers were finding the wider material more economical.

Mr. Foote told the wholesalers it was up to them as to whether or not they should have large sums tied up in a great variety of slow moving goods. The 26-inch dress material, he said, was "inherited" from the time when wool goods were produced in that width and fifty four inch material was unknown.

Efforts are being made, he said, to reduce the 300 color shades on the market to 44. The National Association of finishers of cotton fabrics and textile color card associations are working on the idea.

Various topics of interest to wholesale dry goods merchants were discussed at today's sessions. Among the speakers besides Mr. Foote were John R. Summers, Dallas, Texas, C C. Henking, Huntington, West Va.; W. C. Stitt, Youngstown, Ohio; N. P. McNair, Cambridge, Mass; Jacques Bramhal, New York and W. Arthur Shelton, Washington.

The annual report of Norman H. Johnson, Richmond, Va., secretary and treasurer, also will be read.

H. V. Kaltenborn, associate editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y., will speak tonight on the "Dawes report." Dr D. W. Daniels, president of Clemson College, Clemson College, S. C., also will speak

DAILY PUZZLE

The baseball season is coming in and here is a puzzle to interest the "fans" A nine-inning game was played between the Sockers and the Rockers The Rockers, as home team, batted last, and were never behind, although the score was tied at several points The Rockers won, and the scorekeeper found that they had scored exactly one run for every five outs against them, whereas the Sockers had scored one run for every nine outs against them. What was the final score, and how was the game won?

Rest Are Fads For DX Work

By ISRAEL KLEIN

NEW YORK, May 8.— Radio fans still dabbling with the simple one-tube receiving set need go no further.

Prof. John H. Morecroft, head of the department of electrical engineering at Columbia University, president of the Institute of Radio Engineers and pioneer in this science, gives them encouragement.

"Long distance reception is what everyone is seeking just now," he says. "But that craze will soon die down. Broadcasting will resolve itself into more centralized control and local reception will be the final outcome."

Which means that the complicated "ultra-super-super" receiver is only a fad. Morecroft says so.

"Most of these new sets you read abou ttoday are only adaptations and complication of the three or four fundamental circuits in radio engineering," he points out. "Thief only good is in the achievement of long distance reception, and in bringing out a far station through a loud speaker.

"But when broadcasting becomes localized, a small, simple one-tube set will be just as good, and much cheaper and easier to control"

Centralization Ahead

Morecroft is quite confident in his prediction of localized broadcasting. It will come about, he says, by a gradual diminution of the number of stations now broadcasting and centralization of those that remain.

"Then we shall get better broadcasting," he predicts. "The centralization of stations may ultimately mean government control, with one outstanding station sending out a program to all the others, from which local fans will receive them.

"Local receiving sets under such conditions need be constructed for reception of about 100 miles on the average. They can't help but make them simpler and cheaper, when the same programs will be sent out all over the country at the same time.

There will be no more need for getting DX"

There's an opportunity for wired wireless, Morecroft adds. But it will be more limited than the localized form of broadcasting, he predicts.

"Wired radio probably is coming, but I can see only a limited use for it. Where there is an underground network of electric wires, as in New York, for instance, wired radio may be good for about a mile"

Part of Electrics

Morecroft is one of the few experimenters who does not patent his inventions.

"Whatever I learn and write about, I publish," he explains.

It's just one of the details of electrical engineering to him. As professor of electrcal engineering at Columbia he can claim creation of most radio engineers of today. Many now scatered through various engineering laboratories were his students.

But fundamentally, he insists, they are electrical engineers specializing in radio. Which is the way he has of offering this advice to radio fans:

"Study the elements of electricity if you want to learn about radio"

Vaudeville Acts Taken From Air

NEW YORK, May 8.—Keith circuit vaudeville performers hereafter will be forbidden to broadcast by radio

This action has been decided upon after an investigation which proved to the satisfaction of the Keith officials that radio broadcasting was injuring attendance at their theaters.

One of the results of this decision is the enforced abandonment of music broadcast by the famous Vincent Lopez's drawing power was being deprominent stations. His radio contract was to expire about the first of May.

The Keith office has protested that Lopez's drawing power was being decreased for the treaters because people heard him so often through the air.

Broadcasters, however, make the counterclaim that radio "made" Lopez, that he would never have become nationally famous were it not for his broadcasting, which started with selections of his orchestra being put on the air direct from the Pennsylvania hotel. And tey add it was fame as an orchestra broadcaster that won him his contract to appear in vaudeville.

TOBACCO FAR NORTH

MONTREAL, May 8.—Tobacco may be grown in every part of Canada, even north of the 55th degree, a bulletin of the Canadian Pacific Railway announces. The tobacco plants are grown as are cabbage. When it is felt certain that the last spring frost has occurred, the plants are set out. One Alberta farmer, living well above the 55th degree, has never failed to produce a crop.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapes. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment McFall's Drug Store can supply you.—adv.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The high intellectual plane on which President Coolidge's campaign for re-election is to be based is indicated by the creation, inside the Republican National Committee, of a special "College Bureau."

This bureau has been charged with the job of lining up the younger generation of "thinking voters" in support of a president who may be expected to uphold the "best ideals of collegiate life and the historic traditions of our country."

All previous attempts to organize college students politically will be overshadowed by the campaign to be waged this year to swing them en masse behind Coolidge

"While organizations of a similar character," says a statement by Republican headquarters, "have been undertaken from time to time in previous years, it is felt essential that the movement now be placed on a permanent, nationa lbasis, with a definite and uniform program."

* * *

As might be expected, one of the first clubs to get under way in this campaign, was "The Republican Club of Amherst." Similar organizations, however, already have started in more than 100 colleges, and the list is to be broadened until every educational institution teaching men and women of voting age is covered.

Ohio leads the list so far in number of clubs formed under the Republican College Bureau, with 17. Indiana comes second with 11, Iowa third with 10, and Illinois and Pennsylvania are tied for fourth with nine each.

* * *

Among government officials and others sponsoring and aiding this organizing of a Republican intelligensia to sweep Coolidge back into power are Louis A. Coolidge, former assistant secretary of treasury; James M. Beck, solicitor general of the United States; Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy.

As soon as the student body in each of the colleges has been organized, the bureau will reach out to include in its scope the alumni of the various institutions. No college man is to be overlooked in the appeal that this is the time for all good students to come to the aid of their colleague—Coolidge of Amherst!

* * *

Incidentally, it may be of interest to note that Boies Penrose II is on the executive committee of the newly formed Harvard Republican Club.

That name brings back memories of the days when the original Penrose from his throne as chief of the Old Guard, laid down the law as to who was who and what was what in the Republican party. Though a college man himself, Boies the First preferred to run politics through "practical" and mature "men of affairs" not through college campaigns

Boies Penrose II is not the son of the former G. O. P. leader. Senator Penrose was a bachelor.

* * *

Turning from politics to poetry—a far jump—Edwin Markham, regarded by many as America's greatest living poet, has just paid Washington one of his periodic visits. And while here, perhaps just to make his eastern hosts feel good, he poked a bit of fun at the Golden West where he has his home

One of a dinner party at which Markham was present remarked that it seemed to him—he was trying to "salve" Markham a bit—that the brightest men came from the west

"Yes," Markham said, "and the brighter they are the quiker they come!"

VOTE TO ABOLISH THE PIERCE OIL COMPANY

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, May 7.—At a special meeting of the stockholders here today it was voted to abolish the Pierce Oil Company and refinance the organization by the formation of the Pierce Petroleum Corporation, to be incorporated in New Jersey.

The new company will issue 2,500,000 shares of stock, it was announced.

Henry W Anderson, of Richmond, led the fight to prevent the action which was taken but the plan went through on the vote of a majority of stockholders who were represented at the meeting by Guggenheimer, Untermeyer and Marshall of New York.

Refinancing was necessary, according to proponents of the plan, not only to put extensive properties on a profitable operating basis but also to save the company from receivership.

Experts representing a portion of the stockholders proposed the formation of the new corporation which would take over all the assets and all the liabilities of the existing company. The latter company, it was said, will receive half of the stock of the new corporation. The remaining stock will be offered for subscription to the stockholders, who will automatically become stockholders in the new corporation, irrespective of whether they subscribe for any stock in the new company.

All the national cemeteries in the United States have a total area of 153,160 acres.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Patterson Drug Company and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freezing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.—adv.

Horse Sense

By CLOVER
(Th Oldest Horse in the World, Owned by Rev. N. Meyers, Catawassa, Pa.)

I am 51 years old, but my life is not a burden.

As I grew older I found my load became lighter, and I feel as young today as I did when I first kicked over the traces

I have jogged and troted and galloped through life and it has not left me without a feed-bag full of horse sense

I was pacing a wicked step in the days before autos were heard of I have passed them and they hav passed me They have crowded me from the road and filled my nostrils with foul smells of oil, but I have only pity for them. Theirs is a fast and short life In four or five years they go to the bone-yard their term of service ended—they are not even fit to make a good pot of glue!

Since my early colthood I have felt keenly the driving force that has urged me on to greater things I never hesitated on an upgrade Any wise horse knows that what goes up must come down

I have always found great pleasure in stalling, but only in the proper place.

Wild oats, contrary to their reputation, are tasty and satisfying, but the silo will balk many a good horse. Between my own natural temperance and a high fence around my master's silo I am abl to boast that seilo juice never passed my bit.

To those equine fellows of mine, who would benefit by my experience, I say that it is a long road that has no turning and that life cannot be saddled with so many woes that there is not yet a chance to stir up a good old horse laugh

On the main, I have enjoyed a huge kick in life.

REPORTS CONFLICT AS TO MEX. LABOR DAY

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 7—Conflicting reports of the celebration of thousands of workers in Mexico City on May 1, Mexico's labor day, were contained in newspapers of the capital of that date reaching New Orleans today. El Universal displayed prominently on th efirst page of how the workers burned the flags of the United States, Italy, Russia and Spain in the streets while speakers harangued the mobs with fiery denunciations of these governments.

Excelsior, a contemporary, stated the workers marched in orderly fashion under the heading "Demonstration of 30,000 Workers Held. No disorders." El Universal said speakers protested against alleged persecutions made against workers in the United States, Russia, Italy and Spain. Cries of "death of those governments," the newspaper said, were heard while their national flags were being burned. All business was at a standstill during the day, the newspaper added.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR HAIR WITH

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—adv.

Child-birth

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA-78, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

THE MAN WHO WILL NOT DOWN

One of the most significant developments of recent weeks in the pre-convention campaigns of the major parties is the frequent allusion to the availability of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, and his fitness for the United States presidency. It is of course, quite natural that the press of his home state, should speak kindly of him and to dwell upon his characteristics as a statesman rather than those of a politician. That is the unwritten law of state loyalty. But the focussing of attention on the Virginian is by no means confined to his home state and the recognition which is being given him as the outstanding figure in the ranks of the Democrats when there is a rather desperate casting about for the man who could well carry the Democratic nomination comes from many distant points. It has been conceded by some Northern writers that the Republicans secretly fear Carter Glass to a greater extent than any of the Democrats upon whom there is a concentration of political thought and appraisal and they are cherishing the hope that the tradition that a man from a conceded state cannot win will not be upset. A Danville man who was recently in the Middle West, and who was in touch with men whose opinions were not based on personal predilections, was struck by the quiet admiration for Senator Glass and the expressed belief that he is already a force to be reckoned with and that the vote in the New York convention will be a great deal more than a gracious gesture or a political pat on the back. In sizing up Carter Glass, perhaps we here in Virginia, are too prone to bow meekly to the political maxim that he is out of the running because of the geographic position of the state he represents. The time has come for Virginia to assume a more militant attitude towards a man whose sheer personality is forcing him to the forefront of national political thought.

THE PROSPECTIVE CHURCH MERGER

Favorable action taken yesterday by the General Conference of the Methodist church, North, at Springfield, Mass., on the proposed unification of the two great church bodies, North and South has, for a long time been predicted. The overwhelming vote cast on this matter which for many years has crept into discussions of the two conferences is a triumph for progressive thought in the church and the realization that the time has come to lift the intangible barriers which heretofore have prevented the union. In all probability a meeting of the Southern church General Conference will be called to take concurrent action or to reject the merger on which there is still a diversity of opinion. Some of the strongest leaders, both ministerial and lay, are opposed to unification, among them Bishop Collins Denny, but there is a prevalent belief that the opposition to the merger is in the minority and that a test of strength in the conference would show a prevailing sentiment for action similar to that taken at Springfield. The doctrine of the two churches is essentially the same, both being faithful to the fundamentals laid down by John Wesley and their form of service is the same. Neither church will surrender any of th principles for which it has stood but on the other hand there would be a great reduction in the growing cost of maintaining the church organizations since one of them would be eliminated. The restraining influence against unification has been largely sentimental but there is a growing realization that this should give way to the broader concepts of the mission of Methodism in the promotion of Christianity.

SCHOONER OFF ON LONG HUNT FOR PURE GOLD

Argonauts Leave on Search For Treasures in Barren Wastes of Siberia

By FORREST WHITE
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—The three-masted auxiliary schooner, "Speedway" will spread her sails today and point her course for the new frontier of gold, thousands of miles away in the hazy Siberian wastes.

The "Speedway" will carry a full company of determined Argonauts, who expect to make their dreams of vast wealth in pure gold come true, and believe themselves to be the vanguard of any grat gold rush like that to California in '49, or to Alaska a score of years ago.

Forty days from today, granted favorable weather, the Speedway will drop anchor under the lea of the beautiful palisades that form an entrance to one of the earth's remotest outposts—Okhotash, on the Okhotash Sea, in Siberia. She will have 4,700 miles by the ocean trade routes from the harbor of Los Angeles, and will have accomplished the first and easy stage of the journey for the ship's company that has heard and answered the call of gold—gold in grains, and nuggets, and in solid blocks, waiting for the touch of the eager fingers of man.

At Okhotash these new Magellans will assemble a fleet of river boats, and when they are heavily laden with an dmachinery for panning and mining gold, will stroke their difficult way through unamed and unbarted streams to the town of Petrotaulfske, at the south end of Kamchatka peninsular. Here will be their goal, the joyous end of the first expedition to dig for Siberian gold and the thrilling moment for one of the most picturesque companies of men that ever set sail as fortune hunters.

Will they find gold in fabulous quantities, and ready for the taking by little effort? Everyman of the company will tell you they will. But save for one, none of them has ever seen the spot. They have cast their fortunes upon the word of this one man, L. S. McGirk, a veteran gold miner, who has roamed the earth in search of the yellow metal.

McGirk is experienced in the ways of gold and knows a chance pocket from a true field where rich strikes may be made. He returned recently from the Siberian fields with samples of "float" quartz which assayed as high as $12,000 a ton, while placer samples assayed from 30 cents to $13 a yard.

It is McGirk's word and the samples that he took from the earth that has put the fever into the blood of the men who will sail on the "Speedway." For the greater part they are veteran placer miners, but they include representatives from nearly every walk of life, including a physician, a lawyer and a preacher. They all go for gold.

The expedition was organized jointly by McGirk and H. C. Wilson, an experienced shipping man, who purchased the "Speedway" a staunch craft, and loaded upon her, mining machinery costing $75,000 to be installed for dredging and hydraulic operations. Supplies to last the entire company two years, with tents and camping outfits, are also stowed away in the hold of the ship, and all of the company to sail today have said their goodbyes, recited again their dreams of wealth, and stand ready for the long and unbroken absence at the last outpost of cilization in a strange and forbidding country.

The "Speedway" will be their only mean sof communication and will remain at anchor in Okhotask harbor until she receives her cargo of gold. But even if the gold fails, the expedition does not expect to return empty handed, for it has been agreed that in addition to mining, no matter how rich the sand or ore, they will trap land otter, silver, red, black, white and cross fox, sable and Siberian squirrel, and will ship the skins, worth far more than their weight in gold, with their gold back to Los Angeles harbor once a year.

If the "Speedway" returns heavily laden with gold a year from this time, the real rush to the Siberian gold fields may be expected to follow. But not before then, for it is doubtful if any word of the success or the failure of the expedition will reach the world except through the return of their own ship.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Why people should be so surprised at Harry K. Thaw's probable release from an insane asylum is beyond us. Granted even that he is thoroughly insane, which a jury says he is not, there still would be ample reason for giving him his liberty.

Think of the insane people at large now. Just the other night at the theater there were two insane people behind us, one on either side of us and two in front of us. Every time an actor said a word, these insane people would repeat it.

To allow Thaw to remain in an asylum and permit these lunatics to keep their liberty shows rank discrimination, is un-American and unconstitutional.

A Society for the Prevention of Theater Parrots should immediately be organized. It should be national in scope for this is not the only city afflicted with these idiots.

We approach this subject in all seriousness. We regard theater parrots as the greatest menace of the American stage today. A theater parrot will spoil the best of plays. Something must be done to muzzle these birds.

This is the time of year many shows close, most of them forever. A few original New York companies leave for the road. Within a week "Sun Up," "Runnin' Wild," "Tarnish," "Mary Jane McKane," "Nancy Ann," "Sweet Little Devil," "Outward Bound," and several others passed into history. Most of those named were successes.

Especially true is this of 'Outward Bound,' probably the finest production of this season.

In their places others will come. A wave of musical revues is confidently expected, now that the Democratic convention is slated to open. There is a general belief that out-of-towners prefer musical shows. And broadly speaking, this is true. The discrimnating visitor will not choose musical shows for his entire theatrical meal while in the metropolis. One or two should be sufficient.

Managers promised there would be no raises in rates during convention week. There probably won't be for those productions already on the boards. But there is nothing to prevent managers putting on new shows, especially musical ones, with a $5 or even $10 top.

The thought of hundreds of visitors coming to New York for the convention prompts this question: "Is the average audience here made up of residents of this city or visitors?"

You will find pople who think that were it not for the visitors few shows could succeed here. That is hardly true. The bulk of all audiences here is formed by people who make their homes in this city.

Were it not for this resident trade to rely upon, managers would hesitate to bring new productions. New Yorkers are naturally pleasure seekers. This craving they find best satisfied in the theaters.

But this holds true only for fall and winter months. In the summer time the majority of an audience comes from other cities on their annual or bi-annual visit.

Mention the theater to the average New Yorker during the hot months and he will laugh. He prefers the sea shore and every spare minute is passed letting the salt water of the Atlantic Ocean dash against his bow legs.

This Mother Knew.

"The folks over there are sho' making a lot of trouble for themselves. Here 'tis summer coming on and they've done weaned that baby. I suppose the mother wanted to get out and she figured that the way to do it was to wean the baby. She'll find out that she made a mistake. Meaning that baby and giving it the bottle is liable to get her into trouble that's a heap worse than having to come home to nurse the baby. First thing she knows she'll be givin' him some spoiled milk, and then he'll get diarrhoea and she'll have to stay at home day and night until he gets well.

"Every now-and-then I see two bottles of milk, fixed ready for the baby, settin' in the window. They fix about four bottles ahead all ready to give, and then they put it in the window until time to use it comes. They think that's savin' 'em trouble, and I expect it is right now. But who knows what day that milk will spoil a little bit, and then the baby will get diarrhoea. Then the extra trouble will way yonder eat up the trouble that's been saved. You better have a mighty good ice box before you try that trick of fixing four or five feedings of bottle milk for the baby at one time. Then flies will be along here the first thing you know. I look to see a fly or two come buzzing around 'most any warm, sunshiny day now. After the first one comes the balance will get there pretty quick. It's mighty hard to keep a bottle fed baby from getting diarrhoea in fly time.

"Besides, there's a lot of trouble fixing bottles—cleaning the bottle, keeping the milk right, mixing it right, keeping the mixtures right, and then warming before feeding the baby.

"Some of the feeding times comes mighty unhandy if you've got to get the mixture and then warm it and then feed it. I think that woman's makin' trouble for herself."

I have reported the conversation just as I heard it. The woman who was talking knew what she was talking about. Her opinions are right. A mother who weans her baby prematurely makes trouble for herself.

Meat Broth For Infants.

A. P. C. writes: Is it customary in the United States to give meat broth to infants of 12 months and over? Italian doctors are opposed to this practice; maintaining that climatic conditions in southern Europe, especially during the hot summer months, are such that beef juice, etc., if given to infants, would cause intestimonal complaints. My wife and I desire to raise our infant daughter according to American ideas, and would appreciate an expression of an opinion from you on this point.

REPLY.

It is. In fact, babies are given vegetable soups early in the second half of the first year. There is some meat in these soups. Before the end of etable soup. The custom of giving a teething baby a chicken bone to gnaw and suck on is a good one.

A Gamble In Teeth.

F. A. S. writes :Last month I had an X-ray made of my teeth, and there were twelve infected, through absorption, my dentist says; but he says they will not cause me any sickness unless they come loose or become suppurating. He says if they were infected the pus would find an outlet between the teeth. He says lots of people are no better off after extraction than before, and that X-rays are not always true.

What would you advise?

REPLY.

I wish I knew what you should do, but I do not.

I have seen people who got relieved from symptoms after having the teeth pulled. The symptoms relieved have ranged from rheumatic pains to sugar in the urine.

I have known others who have not been benefited by having their teeth pulled.

I have not heard of any satisfactory way of telling which cases will be benefited. It is a gamble, wits no possibility of anybody betting on a certainty.

Children In Danger.

2. What precaution should be taken in a home where a tubercular patient spends most of the day in the same room with the children?

REPLY

1. There is.

2. It is against the law for a consumptive with the disease in an active stage to stay in the room with children.

If the authorities will not act, the family should insist that either the sick person or the children be removed from the room.

DRAKES BRANCH, May 8.—(Grapevine Wireless)—While waiting for the straglers at the Goo Goo Club meeting Tuesday night, "Gus" Booth told a story which pointed a moral. It was something like the boy whistling to keep up his courage as he drove the cows home after dark and had to pass a cemetery. For lack of space, perhaps, this item did not appear in the report of the proceedings.

Brother Booth related the incident of two boys who grew up together and were great chums. One was serious minded and decided he would go in for the ministry. The other, inclined to be adverturous, joined the Navy and sailed the seven seas; he became a hard-boiled egg as tough as a pine knot. After years of wandering up and down the bounding main he returned to the old homestead and forthwith looked up the chum of his youth. When he called on the parson he carried along a parrot, the tropical bird being perched upon his shoulder. The minister also had a parrot, and soon after friendly greetings were exchanged, this bird flapped his wings and said: "What shall I do to be saved." The sailors' pet craned his neck and replied: "Pump like Hell or we'll all be drowned."

Just how this story fitted into the anxieties of the evening we are not prepared to say.

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

SYNOPSIS

The marriage of Dolly and Nigel Bretherton proves an unhappy one. When war is declared, Nigel is glad to enlist. He leaves Dolly under the care of Mary Furnival. Nigel is killed and Dolly marries an old sweetheart, Robert Durham. Dolly and Robert sail for America and word comes of the sinking of the ship on which they took passage.

When Nigel's older brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow, Mary is ashamed to tell him of Dolly's marriage. David mistakes Mary for his brother's wife and asks her to come to live at Red Grange with him and and his aunt. Mary is given a hearty welcome to her new home. When Dora Fisher comes to call at Red Grange, Mary asks David not to accompany Dora to the station.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She escaped past him now, and went into the hall, where Miss Varney and Dora Fisher stood together. Mary thought that the latter looked at her rather curiously as she joined them; she was concious of her hot cheeks and nervous manner. She went on to the front door, and stood looking out into the darkening garden.

The headlights of the big car pierced the gloom like vicious eyes, throwing everything beyond into acute shadow.

Bretherton passed her and climbed into the front seat; he did not look at her.

After a moment or two Dora followed him; she was laughing and talking all the time; she shook hands with Mary effusively.

"I am so pleased to have met you," she said. "I hope we shall be great friends. You must come and stay with us in town, will you?"

Mary's troubled eyes turned towards David, but he was sitting at the wheel, staring straight in front of him. She began a stumbling reply.

"Thank you—thank you very much, but I shall not be here much longer; I am only on a visit, you know. Thank you very much, all the same."

A little flash of interest crept into Dora's face, but it was gone instantly.

"Is that so? I didn't know; but perhaps you will be able to spare us a week-end sometime. Goodby."

She got into the car beside David. He drew the rug round her punctiliously; Mary watched them with an absurd little heartache.

She resented Dora being there in her place; she stood in the cool darkness for some moments after the car had turned out of the drive.

Miss Varney called to her from the hall.

"Come in, my dear—come in! You will catch your death of cold!"

Mary obeyed reluctantly; she was surprised to find that she was quite chilled. She walked back to the drawing-room and knelt down by the fire; Miss Varney followed.

"I'm glad she didn't stay," she said, with a little comfortable laugh. "I do try to like her, for David's sake, but in my heart I don't really like her at all."

Mary did not look round; she was holding her hands to the blaze.

"Why—why for David's sake?" she asked, rather constrainedly.

"Well, for one reason, her brother is his greatest friend, and for another —well, they have known each other all their lives."

"I see! Do you—do you think he will—marry her?"

Miss Varney said "Good heavens!" in a voice of horror.

She stared down at Mary's black-robed figure with eyes that were almost frightened.

"My dear child! What put such an idea into your head?"

Mary laughed.

"Oh, I don't know. Why should it be anything so very strange, after all? You say they are old friends, and she is very—pretty."

"Humph! Well, everyone to their taste," said Miss Varney. "But, personally, I prefer a woman to be less like an expensive dressed-up doll. And if David ever marries, I hope he'll be sensible and choose a wife like you, my dear, if I may say so."

"Oh" The little exclamation escaped Mary involuntarily. She colored sensitively.

"Well, I mean what I say," Miss Varney asserted. "Women of your type are those who make men happy; the women who make a real "home" in its best sense—not a doll, without a thought in her head beyond new frocks and jewelry. But apart from that, I'm quite sure that David has never given her a serious thought."

Mary did not answer; her thoughts were away along the dark road with the two in that speeding car.

She despised herself because she felt angry and jealous, and yet she could not crush the feeling. When Miss Varney left her, she rose to her feet and went over to the window, drawing aside the blind.

It was not nearly time for David to come back yet, but all the same she found herself straining her ears for a sound of the returning car, or a gleam of its powerful headlights through the darkness.

Chapter XXXIII
Not Encouraging

But David and his companion had not yet reached the station; the engine was running badly, and once it almost failed on a hill leading down to the village.

Dora was secretly rather pleased; she calculated that if they were to lose this train, she would have to spend the night at the Red Grange; there was another train to town, but it would mean reaching home so late, she know that David would never consent to her going by it alone.

But the engine improved after the first half mile. David turned to her with an apologetic smile.

"I'm sorry to have been so unentertaining; there is something wrong with the engine. I hope we shall get to the station safely."

Dora laughed.

"I hope so, too. It wouldn't be very nice being left on the roadside so late as this, would it?"

David leaned forward and consulted the little clock opposite.

"It's not very late," he said, in a matter-of-fact voice. "And we could always walk back."

She frowned a little impatiently; he was always so dull, so she told herself with a sense of irritation. Why was it that she could never make him talk to her as other men did? Apparently her beauty and expensive clothes were nothing to him.

But in spite of her irritation, his indifference piqued her; she made every effort to interest him.

She began to speak about Mary.

"Such a dear!" she gushed. "I had no idea she was so nice. Monty never thought much of her, you know."

"No?"

"He said he considered she was rather common, but I should hardly call her that, would you?"

"Hardly."

It was not encouraging, but she went on:

"I was so surprised when she told me that she is only with you on a visit. I quite thought that she was going to live here."

"I hope she will." The answer was quiet and unconcerned.

Dora bit her lip angrily, but her voice was sugary enough when she next spoke.

"Do you? How awfully sweet of you! I think she is so fortunate to have such kind relations-in-law; as a rule they are rather horrid, don't you think?"

"I've never been married—so I can't judge," said David. He sent the car forward a trifle more quickly; through the night had sounded the distant whistle of the incoming train.

"I think we shall just catch it," he said smoothly.

The train was at the platform when they left the car outside the station; there were only a few seconds in which to say goodby.

Dora swallowed her chagrin as best she could; her pretty face was wreathed in smiles as she leaned from the carriage window.

"It has been so nice to see you again; you won't forget us next time you come to London, David?"

"I certainly will not. Tell Monty I will look him up."

She pouted.

"That means the office."

"Not at all; I will make a special point of calling to see you."

But the words were impartial, in spite of the accompanying smile; the last glimpse she had of him was his grave face, from which all consciousness of her was already fading.

Chapter XXXIV
A Change of Color

She sat back in her corner of the empty carriage frowningly. After all, she almost regretted having paid the visit at all; Red Grange had seemed even more alluring than she had previously remembered it, and David less susceptible to her charms.

Why was he so different from all the other men of her acquaintance? she asked herself angrily. She could enumerate half a dozen in as many seconds who would have given anything for the chance of a possibly lengthened tete-a-tete with her; but David had merely driven the car faster to get rid of her.

But David's very indifference lent a spur to her hitherto only half-formed resolve. She would marry him; she would marry him in spite of everything, and be mistress of the Red Grange.

"THANK YOU. BUT I SHALL NOT BE HERE MUCH LONGER."

And as for that pale-faced widow of Nigel's—Dora's face hardened as she recalled the friendly way in which she and David had entered the drawing-room that afternoon, fresh from their drive.

Monty had been right when he said that from what he knew of the girl she would lose no opportunity to entrenc hherself at the Red Grange; and she had certainly done a lot during the short time of her stay there.

"Scheming little nobody!" was the thought in Dora's mind.

She tried to remember what else Mont yhad said about her beside the fact that she was common; she knit her brows, puzzling her brain to remember.

There was something else, she was sure; something—oh, yes, he had called her "pretty, in a sort of a way," and commented on the fact that she had red-brown hair.

That was so like a man, to make such a mistake; Red-brown hair, indeed! Why, it was the most ordinary mouse-colored shade.

And her clothes! Dora indulged in a little smile as she remembered Mary's simple black frock; homemade, she had designated it from the first. Whatever on earth could Nigel have seen in her? Nigel, who always so admired aesmart woman.

Cadets Swamped Emory and Henry

LEXINGTON, Va., May 7.—V. M. I showered base hits all over the park here this afternoon on Alumni field and literally swamped Emory and Henry by the ragged score of 19 to 3. The Cadets made a total of nineteen safeties of which eight were for extra bases. Emory got away to a three run lead in the first frame by bunching hits, but the Cadets came back strong and annexed six, three of which were home-run drives. Caldwell, Pillow, and Deitrich sharing the honors. Nugent, twirling for the flying Cadets held the visitors safe after the first and gave up but two hits until the eighth when he was relieved by White, who was also invincible. Circus catches by Barbour, Deitrich, Pillow, and Herndon added life to the contest. The batting of Pillow, Faulkner, Deitrich, Ryder, Nugent and Combs featured.

BRILLIANT GAME STOPPED WITH SCORE ONE ALL IN 7TH, PLAY TWINS TODAY

DURHAM, N. C., May 7.—The third game of the series between the Bulls and the Tobacconists resulted in a draw of one run each when weather conditions became so bad that it was impossible to go any further.

One of the cleanest and fastest exhibitions of the national pastime was staged today. The lone tally of each club was earned and Herb Murphy's pitcher, received as a loan from Charlotte had a little the better of the argument insofar as hits were concerned, three being garnered off his innings while Hackney gave up five in eight innings.

Danville scored their run in the initial session when, after Trefrey went out, Regan layed down a bunt in front of the plate that Pierre possibly could have handled but at any rate didn't and Eddie was safe at first; Manager Murphy singled and Regan tok second; Inman hit to the shorstop and Murphy was out short to second while Inman was safe at first and the speedy Regan scored from second. Resco went out ending the inning.

In the fourth the Pierremen scored their tally. Bourg hit one a mile-a-minute to Murphy who was able by a wonderful effort to knock it down but threw wild to first. Resco seemed unable to get loose from the ball and Bourg went on to second on the play and scored when Mallonee laid down a beautiful sacrifice and was thrown out by Regan.

Shoaf struck out two and walked none. Altogether the boy showed a wonderful assortment of stuff.

The Danville aggregation play Winston a three game series for the remainder of the week at Twintown and come home at the close for three games at Stonewall Jackson park with Bill Pierre's aggregation the first three days of next week.

WINSTON GETS TWO OUT OF THREE FROM CAPITALS

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., May 7.—The Capitals returned to their losing ways today and dropped the closing game to the Twins 7 to 2. Littlejohn was on the mound for the home team and turned in a very nice game, giving up eight hits in nine innings and only one of those were for extra bases, that a double by Ricks. The first three runs scored by Winston were unearned but the others were the result of solid blows.

The NUT CRACKER
BY JOE WILLIAMS

STRAIGHT DOPE BENNY ON ON RADIO

If your Uncle Samuel wants to keep the Japs away from the horrors and handicapse of this country, that's his business. Personally, I ain't no more interested in the matter than Battling Siki would be in an empty gin bottle.

But why start and stop with the rice inhalers? As long as Samuel has gone in for high-hatting in a serious way he ought to slam the star-spangled doors shut in the faces of all alien annoyances, to wit:

1—Lecturers with superior airs and inferior bank balances who come over here and tell us where to get off, and why monocles should never be worn in shower baths.

2—French pugs who say they'll fight at the drop of a hat and then drop at the sight of a left hook.

3—Wild bulls of the Pampas and other varieties of bunk-bred cattle that feast contentedly, if not appreciatively, on the long green.

4—Russian revues that show us what subtle comedy really is, thereby increasing our appreciation for Ben Turpin.

5—Long-eared philosophers who talk of the soul of America and wind up by having a check cashed

6—German wrestlers who run mainly to double chins and triple defeats.

7—Crusading statesmen with a message, always sent collect.

8—All people who comment, "now in the country where I come from—"

(Next week Straight Dope Benny will air his views on matrimony. And goodness knows they ought to be.)

HIGH POINT TAKES FINAL GAME OF SERIES

HIGH POINT, May 7.—The venerable Rube Eldridge south pawed the Patriots into submission today when they accumulated ten hits which were good for only three runs and his mates cracked out eleven bingles that brought six markers across the platter.

The feature of the game was the number of double plays pulled Fuhrey, Greensboro shortstop, had one unassisted when he speared a line drive with first and second bases occupied and stepped on the keystone sack before the runner could scramble back and missed a triple play by a small fraction when he shot the ball across to first before the runner could return to the bag but Mollie Cox dropped the throw and Greensboro missed its chance to pull off the first three-time killing of the Piedmont season Six other double killings were made during the game.

In the eighth inning Townsend hit one over the right field wall for what the spectators thought was a home run, they claiming it was fair by several yards but the umpire ruled it foul. On the next pitch Townsend hit another over the same fence which the consensus of opinion ruled as foul but the umpire decided it was fair and Townsend circled the bases.

High Point made three runs in the first frame the Carrollmen marked up one each in the second and third and tied the count in the eighth but the Pointers came back in their half of the same inning and pushed three more across the plate and the game ended without further scoring

Greensboro goes to Durham tomorrow for the remainder of the week.

NEW YORK, May 7— The action of the United States Lawn Tennis Association in deprecating publicly the custom of "point throwing"—that is, the making of an intentional fault to offset an umpire's decision which a player feels was unjust to his opponent—has stirred up all sorts of discussion and not a little criticism.

It is rather strange that the very thing the tennis association attack was advanced as a point in favor of the sport of tennis by Norris Williams at a Philadelphia forum meeting not long ago. And Williams was right, too, in the moral he drew from this "point throwing."

He showed how high tennis stood ethically by pointing out that it was a point of honor for a player to wipe out the effect of what he considered an unjust ruling. As Williams said "In how few other games could you find men willing to do this?"

Ed Leader's rowing system, as it is being exhibited by Yale this season presents as pretty a spectacle of grace and power as anything seen on Eastern waters in years. The striking thing about the Leader stroke is that it looks so simple. That is because it is so finished that every part blends perfectly into the whole product. There is no terrible lug at the catch, there is no ripping it out at the finish. The blades simply go round and round that eclipse as would the blades of a machine. And yet, it is marvelous how instantly those blades are buried and take grip at the catch, and how cleanly they come free at the finish. The rythm is so pretty that it does not look at all hard, until you look at the blade in the water and see what a grip it has, and then trace that grip to the hands the arms and the bodies of the crew as they swing into it.

It takes some putting together—that stroke. But when it is done, it makes a boat go slipping along with almost no check between strokes.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Reports coming from the Scandinavian countries make it evident that the United States is going to have its hands full winning the olympic games.

A shot put of more than 54 feet, a pole vault of 14 feet, a hammer throw of 200 feet and a mile run in 4 10 2-5 seconds, are enough to alarm anybody. And if the Finns and Sweden can reach these figures in the international ompetition, they certainly should make a lot of trouble. Still there are plenty of Americans who believe that with our sprinters—Murchison, Paddo, Hussy, Bowman and Clark—were are secure. And that despite the fact that Liddell, the Britisher, showed possibilities at the Penn relays. There also are many who believe that nobody can beat Gourdin and Hubbard in the broad jump. De Mar's wokr in the marathon adds confidence, although we have not enouch men in these distance events

There is still much discussion as to America's chances in the 1500 metre run. With Joie Ray, Buker, Enck, Conolly and Hahn we certainly have a strong force, and it will be interesting at the tryout to see which of them is in the best shape.

U. OF VA. BASEBALL SQUAD ON ROAD TRIP

The University of Virginia baseball squad who invaded the camp of the Georgia Tech nine Monday and lost the opening game came back Tuesday and won the second and yesterday went down to defeat by a 2 to 1 score. Virginia previous to this series dropped three straight to the University of North Carolina but they played much better ball at Atlanta and should they keep up their pace in the last series, are on the road to recuperation of some of their previous losses.

The U. of Va. freshman team after being shut out without a hit Tuesday by Holshouser, of Carolina Freshman nine, came back yesterday and defeated the Carolina youngsters 17 to 3.

ATHLETICS HOISTING SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW York, May 8— The Philadelphia Athletics are hoisting signals of distress in the American League. For the ninth consecutive time the Mackmen have been beaten to the wire, until today they stand firmly embedded in the mire of defeat at the bottom of the Johnson heap.

Pre-curtain favorites to upset the championship aspirations of Miller Huggins, the Athletics, with expensive talent aboard, seem destined to repeat their 1923 failure to land in the select circle of first division clubs.

Brute batting strength by the Yankees yesterday sounded taps on the Mackmen, 7 to 4, for the third straight game of the series and the ninth straight defeat of the season.

The Boston Red Sox, one of the pre-season mystery team, had their winning streak brought to an abrupt termination by the Washington team 5 to 4, but it took the Senators eleven innings to bring about this result.

George Sisler's St. Louis Browns, slow in starting, appear to be working smoothly in high gear now and yesterday they drove beyond the second division limits with a 10 to 8 victory and pulled up into a tie with the White Sox for fourth place, the Chicago team being halted by rain. Jacobson, Brown center fielder, made five hits in five times at bat.

The Giants continue to lead the parade in the National League, gaining a half game on the Reds by defeating the Phillies in 10 inningss, 4 to 2, while the Reds were forced into idleness by wet grounds at St. Louis. The Cubs gained a notch on the Dodgers in the private fight for third place when they turned back the Pirates 5 to 1, while the Dodgers were losing to the Braves 4 to 1.

Tris Speaker used twenty players, including a quintet of pitchers and a quartet of pinch hitters against four St. Louis boxmen, but the Browns by bunching hits in two innings breasted the tape first.

NEW RULE HELPFUL TO PITCHERS SAYS WALSH

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 8.—The new rule which is keeping the old ball in play as long as possible is giving the pitchers more effectiveness according to "Big Ed" Walsh, veteran spit-ball star and now first lieutenant to Manager Johnny Evers of the Chicago White Sox.

"Good pitching is not a thing of the past," said Walsh. "This new generation of pitchers is going to turn out as many stars as the old days and the rule to keep the balls in play as long as possible is a big help to the new comers. When they were shooting that new ball into the game every time it became the least bit soiled or some batter lodged a complaint, it was pretty tough on the fellows to strike a stride and many a rookie went back to the bushes before he got a fair start.

"The lively ball and so many of them new tossed into the game was largely responsible for the heavy hitting and the home run epidemic. When you look back into the old days, you will not find so many home runs. Runs came home on singles and fast base running was a big factor. The ol dsacrifice the stolen base and single hits won most of the games.

"In the old days a pitcher turned in a lot more games than some of the fellows of today but that's not the fault of the present day's work. He may be just as good as the old timer and just as willing to work, but he does not get into the game as often."

Carpentier Will Train Where Jack Dempsey Did Once

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 8.—Georges Carpentier, French light heavyweight, who meets Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul at Michigan City, Ind., May 31, will occupy the same training headquarters before the bout that Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, used in 1922 when he trained for the Bill Brennan match that was called off.

Jack Curley, American representative of the Frenchman, has leased Peek-in cottage at Michigan City and after his arrival there Carpentier will sleep in the same bed, eat from the same dishes and drink from the same cup the champion used. Carpentier, due to arrive here next Wednesday, will begin intensive training at his camp about May 19.

Tommy Gibbons, doing light training here, has increased the length of his ring workouts to five rounds in addition to hand ball and gymnasium work. He leaves for his training headquarters Saturday night.

Fischer Hands In His Resignation

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 8.—Declaring that he was out of sympathy with the player writer interpretation of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, Carl Fisher, intercollegiate champion last night forwarded his resignation as a member of the American Olympic and Davis cup squads to Julian S. Myrick of New York, chairman of the Davis cup committee. Fischer, who writes tennis and other sports articles for a local newspaper, said he was convinced that he was not violating the "recognized standards of amateurism." Fischer is the second leading player from the Philadelphia district to resign from the Olympic and Davis cup teams as a result of the United States Lawn Tennis Association's interpretation of the amateur rule. William T. Tilden II, national champion, resigned about two weeks ago.

Australia Eager For Davis Cup

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 8.—Australia is brimming with enthusiasm over the prospect of regaining the Davis cup. The retirement from the American team of William T. Tilden, while regretted by sportsmen in Australia, is expected to have a decided bearing on Australia's chances of lifting the cup from its American anchor.

Latest reports from Australia indicate that F. Kalms, who will be the fourth member of the Davis cup team, is showing unusually promising form. He recently doubled with J. Willard and defeated Gerald L. Patterson and Robert E. Schlesinger 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 in the New South Wales-Victoria team matches. This victory is particularly impressive as Patterson is captain and ace of the Australian Davis cup team and Schlesinger is one of the rising young internationalists of the island.

One Australian tennis authority acclaimed Kalms as the best player of the quartet.

Charles Gilliland Buried in Halifax

J. J. Mansfield returned last night from Halifax county where he attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Charles Gilliland, who shot himself some miles from South Boston on Tuesday morning. The services were held at four o'clock at McKinney church, interment being made nearby. Mr. Mansfield gave further details of the tragic happening this morning declaring that his brother-in-law had showed some signs of insanity recently and that on Tuesday morning his wife felt so worried over his demeanor that she went to the home of her son to tell him about his condition. It was while she was away that he committed the tragic act. Gilliland before entering his home told his young son that he felt no good and that he was going to kill himself. The little boy on hearing the threat started to run for his mother but had gone only a short distance when he heard the report of the gun. Gilliland is survived by his widow and [illegible] children.

Events Move Fast In Turf Events

(By The Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8.—Events are moving swiftly for turf students who are devoting serious study to the knotty problem of picking the winner of the Golden Jubilee renewal of the historic Kentucky derby.

Two recent sharp developments were causing an animated rearrangement of opinion today on the part of racing enthusiasts.

Victory of Altawood over E. R. Bradley's crack Beau Butler in the blue grass stakes in the impressive time of 1:51 4-5 for the mile and a furlong under derby weight, caused a marked display of strength in stock of C. Bruce Head's classic eligible. Previously Altawood had been regarded by many observers as best in the mud but his horse in the "derby trial" is declared to have demonstrated he can move along a fast oval.

Receipt from New York of announcement by Max Hirsch, who trains the colt for Mrs. M. K. Vanderbilt, that Sarazen, unbeaten in ten races as a two-year-old, would not start in the derby marked the elimination of another eligible that had been well favored in winter book play.

Close of the spring meeting at Lexington yesterday resulted in a concentration of thoroughbreds at Churchill Downs for the opening of the spring meeting here Saturday.

MEET IOWA'S NEW COACHES

BOTTOM LOCKE

Next year the Iowa football varsity will be coached by Burt Ingwerson and Gordon Locke. Ingwerson comes to the Iowa City University from Illinois where he served as a valued assistant to Bob Zuppke. Ingwerson replaces Howard Jones as head coach. Locke will be the assistant coach. Locke starred at full back for Iowa two years ago and was an All-American selection.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, May 7.—In addition to a special meeting of some forty members of the East Side Tennis Club held on Monday night to organize an effective opposition against the player-writer rule, three tennis organizations in Philadelphia met at the same time and dcided to ask the United States Lawn Tennis Association to review its action against tennis stars who play tennis and then write about it for the public prints.

There seems to be little doubt that the national association will consent to reconsider the matter, if only because the weight of opinion within the ranks of the U. S. L. T. A., seems to be very strongly in favor of Tilden and his journalistic colleagues. Whethed this is because the complete evidenc upon which the ruling was based has not been placed before the public—it has not been—or whether there is the feeling that whatevr the merits of the case too strict an attitude has been taken, may not be sadi. The fact, however, remains.

Not many springs will elapse before we shall see inter-collegiate regattas on Lake Mendota, University of Wisconsin, on the Mississippi River at Minneapolis and elsewhere on rowing courses of the middlewest. Minnesota continues to flirt with the idea and the time is certain to come when aquatics will be established as one of the important registered sports at Minneapolis. Other institutions will follow, as soon probably as they recover from the effects of stadium building, a move which has caused most college athletic authorities to raise their eyes with horror when the cost of rowing is considered.

Rowing is a beautiful sport and one in which the collegiate amateur spirit is exemplified as in no other branch of major athletics. Once the colleges of the midwestern sections take up sweep swinging it will assume immediate popularity and grow in a manner which will surprise some of our athletic directors beyond the Alleghenies.

At the University of Washington, rowing is now the most popular sport with the students. It exceeds football in this respect. Ten years ago, even less, this was by no means the case.

Speaking of Washington reminds the writer of the popularity of Ed Leader, Yale's rowing coach, and the prestige which he has already gained for himself throughout the East. He was the pupil of Hiram Conibear. Conibear was so little known at New London in 1913 that when he came east to see the Yale-Harvard regatta he had to apply to a newspaperman for a ticket to the observation trian.

The day before the race he watched the Yale crew at practice. Yale was a favorite to win over Harvard but Conibear pointed out several grave defects in Yale's style of rowing. Nobody paid any attention to him, because no one had any respect for his opinion. But the regatta next day proved Conibear to be right. And now Conibear's pupil is teaching rowing at Yale. There's drama for you.

NEW YORK, May 8.— When the executive committee and other important committees of the United States Golf Association meet at the Morris County Golf club, Morristown, N. J., on Friday and Saturday, there will be no professional problem to vex them. Long ago were the sheep divided from the goats and both graze in their pastures without friction. Everything will be happy as a wedding at this two day session, at which details of the coming Walker Cup match will be arranged, dinners will be held and leading amateurs will play special matches.

In the meantime tennis clubs affiliated with the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association are holding secret meetings—see Germantown on Tuesday,—and Tilden is traveling about the land making friends everywhere.

Otto Laakso, is one Finnish athlete who seems sincere in his desire to become an American citizen. He has already taken out his second citizenship papers and expects to remain here fo rlife. Laakso has all the qualifications of a great marathoner and was expected to perform great feats in the Boston race. But he developed a sore foot before the event and was unable to start. The chances are that at the olympics of 1925, he will be quite a prospect for the American team.

Baseball's claim as a perilous sport have been brought to the fore by the injury of Kipke, Michigan's center fielder, who is out of the game temporarily at least with an injured knee. It will be recalled that Kipke has been playing football for three years without material injury. Most football players who go in for baseball will tell you that the gridiron holds nothing so nerve-wracking as standing at bat against a pitcher who has got a whole lot of smoke.

Charles West, the negro captain of Washington & Jefferson's track team, is making a good leader. Besides there are chances he may be included in the olympic team. West was to have gone to Wilberforce University to show his stuff before many of the leading negro track athletes of the South next Saturday but has decided to stay out and nurse an injured foot in the interest of the olympic trials.

Gil Dobie's suggestion that Cornell athletes who slump in their studies after they have won varsity letters have their letters taken from them, might do good in cases such as Dobie cites where men have let down in the class room because of big head. But a majority of athletes who fail scholastically, fail because they cannot give adequate time both to curricular and extra curricular interests.

PROHIBIT SMOKING AT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

SCHOONER GOES AGROUND IN FOG OFF N. C. COAST

Captain and Crew Saved But Vessel Is Almost Total Wreck

(By The Associated Press)

NORFOLK, Va., May 8.—In thick fog and heavy sea the four mast schooner, R. R. Govin, of New York, went ashore early today about 14 miles north of Bodies Island, N. C. Only her master, Captain Christensen and crew and her chronometer was saved. They were taken from the vessel by coast guardsmen at Kill Devil Hill station.

The Govin's rudder is gone and she is filled with water as she lays on the beach, surf beating over her. Few details of the ships loss and incidents leading to it were received here.

The schooner was discovered on the beach about daylight when the fog thinned out. She was little more than a mile north of Kill Devil Hill station when sighted by a member of that station crew. The sea was running high and the coast guardsmen left their station with surf gear to aid men aboard the vessel.

Dispatch by beach telegraph to coast guard headquarters here today identified the schooner as the R. R. Govin and reported "crew saved with ship's chronometer."

The coast guard cutter Manning was ordered to assist the Govin but word came later that the schooner was hard on shore and waterlogged and the cutter was recalled.

The Govin's was 175 feet long, 37 feet wide and had a draft of 17 feet. She was of 872 tons and was built in 1919 at Linoleumville, S. I.

She was in the coastwise trade between New York and Tampa and on this voyage was southbound from New York.

Furniture Plant Suffers $50,000 Damage by Fire

(Special to The Bee.)

MARTINSVILLE, Va., May 8.—Fire broke out in the American Furniture Company's large plant at four o'clock yesterday and for a time threatened the destruction of the large building in which bed-room furniture is manufactured. The fire started in the finishing room, located on the fourth floor of the building, being caused by a torch falling from the hands of ne of the workman, igniting the varnish lifter, being used in large quantities in making over furniture. The automatic fire sprinkler located throughout the building, immediately was opened by the sudden and intense heat, the water flooding the three lower stories in which there was stored thousands of dollars worth of furniture ready for the finishing room. All of this was badly damaged by water. A. D. Witten, president of the company, estimates the damage at about fifty thousand dollars.

Colored Minister Caught With Booze In Henry County

MARTINSVILLE, Va., May 8.—Colored brethren and sisters of the Fieldale Baptist church are reported in a high state of mortification following the arrest of their minister, Rev. John Lewis Dodson, who is under $500 bond to appear before the Henry court grand jury on the charge of selling liquor. When the officers arrived at the colored pastorium May Dodson was energetically at work emptying fruit jars, some of which were in a tub of hot water where she was washing clothes. Liquor fumes permeated the dwelling and in the garden a suspicious mound of loose dirt revealed two and a half gallons of liquor.

Fire Loss In City In Fiscal Year Is Put at $70,639

The pecuniary loss from fires which broke out in Danville during the fiscal year ending April 30th totalled $70,639 according to statistics compiled by Lewis F. Mitchell, chief of the city fire department. The fire chief maintains his record according to the calendar year from January 1st to December 31st but he has this year made up a record showing the loss during the city's fiscal year as most of the city officials file reports reflecting the activity of their departments during that period.

Sixty-eight fires were registered between May 1st 1923 and April 31st, 1924 the record shows, the heaviest damage being sustained in April last when eight fires resulted in damage totalling $19,843.

Chief Mitchell does not undertake an estimate of the damage done by fires as was done by his predecessors, conflicts of opinion frequently arising from such estimates. He waits until competent adjusters have made their report and his figures on the loss from each fire are based on these formal estimates. The loss for the year is considered unusually small considering the size of the city and the strength of the fire department and the amount of equipment maintained to cover the entire city.

The monthly record of fires and the damage done during each month is summarizes as follows:

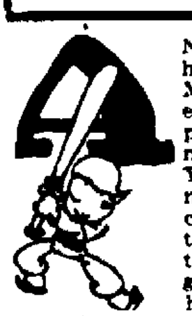
Month	Number Fires	Damage
May	4	$18,776
June	7	5,119
July	4	6,231
August	3	921
September	1	125
October	7	482
November	5	1,131
December	7	686
January, 1924	12	7,875
February	5	445
March	5	9,005
April	8	19,843
TOTALS	68	$70,639

MATCHES CALLED OFF

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Exhibition tennis matches, which were to have been played on the White House courts today by members of the American Davis cup team, were called off on account of rain.

Grandstand Gaff



An even break at Durham, even with Cy Morgan impairing the efficiency of the champions by the exclusion method in the opener. Yesterday's game did not figure in the percentage column, but the Bull-towners got their money's worth in good baseball. That new hurler, Shoaf, made an auspicious start. Too bad he's just a loan to Murphy.

The Tobacconists open in Winston-Salem today against Manager Jackson's Twins. This will end a solid week on the road. Then Bill Pierre's Bulls will horn in at Stonewall Jackson park next Monday for a three game series. Manager Pierre has many friends in Danville, but they will not help him in that series.

Low, second and high gear is the term used relative to different speeds on automobiles but looks like that lad Eddie Regan must have a fourth speed. Ever see anybody score from second base on an infield out? Well, that's what the fleet-footed Regan did yesterday for Danville's run. With one out he had layed down a pretty bunt and reached first safely. Murphy hit a short single and Regan perched at second. Inman hit to short and Murphy was tossed out at second. In the meantime Regan, who was just naturally flying, crossed the platter. Wasn't that going some?

Jerry Jackson of the Charlotte Hornet's pitching staff, he who formerly hurled for Charlie Carroll, is leading the Charlotte boxmen with three games won and none lost.

Sunny Jim Conley is not setting the woods afire at Petersburg yet. Jim is not hitting at his Piedmont stride—yet.

Tommy Abbott was sent in as a pinch-hitter by Richmond a day or two ago and delivered. Tommy didn't do that very often when managing Danville. He's a hero in Richmond, even with a batting average below 200.

Pitcher Shoaf, Manager Murphy's most recent acquisition, played with Kingsport, Tenn., in the Appalachian circuit in 1923 and with a club that finished third in a 6-inch league and ranked sixth in both batting and fielding, he managed to win 10 of his 19 games, fielded .919 in 38 games and batted .182 in 50 games. And this with a team which was lowest in both fielding and batting.

Dave Cochlin appears to be hitting the ball harder and oftener than he did in 1923, and his back-stop work is just as good.

Danville people who saw the fracas and heard the talkfest at Durham Monday invariably characterize Umpire Morgan's harshness as outrageous. That's what the Durham baseball reporter said over the 'phone that night.

Heckle, former Danville try-out in '23, is hooked up with the Raleigh trailers and is hitting well for that team. Duncan's outfit will not always lead the procession backward.

Somebody must head the High Pointers before the June roses bloom. Greensboro did pretty well, and Danville ought to put a small crimp in 'em a week hence. Herndon's hitters have games in Greensboro the first three days of the week.

Palmer, who second-based for a while with Danville, is short-stopping for the Portsmouth leaders in the Virginia Leeague. That team is making a runaway of the race and has a right to, with a team batting average of .341 last week and team fielding figures of .976.

COMMISSION FOR BLIND LISTS 40 SIGHTLESS HERE

Miss Anne Connelly, supervising home teacher for the Virginia commission for the blind arrived here Tuesday to begin activities for the interest and welfare of those without sight. From a census taken last year, thirty-seven persons were listed, but, since the arrival of Miss Connelly three new names were added. Of these, only two are self-supporting, which means that the others who are not of school age, are living either from the generosity of their friends, or from public charity.

During the next few days Miss Connelly will visit all blind persons in their homes and suggest to those who are not too old to work the possibility of being trained to become useful citizens of this community. Lessons will be given entirely free in reading the raised types such as Braille and Moon and books supplied without postage to and from the State Library in Richmond and the Congressional Library in Washington. Handicrafts such as machine and hand sewing will be taught, also knitting, crocheting, basketry, chair reseating, and any other industrial art which the home teacher may deem advisable. The needs of the individual case will be carefully studied and the best plans possible made for the solution of each particular problem, Miss Connelly said.

After the visiting has been completed the cases will be classified and a training centre will be opened where lessons will be given two days or more a week to both white and colored so that both may have a chance to take advantage of this instructional opportunity. For those who are too infirm to come to classes but who want to gain some knowledge while the home teacher is here provisions will be made so that these lessons will be obtained. When pupils have completed their courses of instruction and can make standard articles which will sell on the merits of the goods and not on the fact that they were made by the blind, these graduate workers will be supplied materials at wholesale prices and paid the selling price less the cost of materials only, thus insuring the blind of a fair living. The commission will sell all finished articles opening a good market for the blind worker without any profit to the organization.

The Virginia Commission's chief object is to help the blind help themselves through honorable means of employment. It co-operates with all philanthropic agencies and aims to be a means of helping them solve the social problems of those thus handicapped. It trains children and prepares them to enter the schools for the blind either in Staunton or Newport News. It endeavors to give the blind not only employment, but also social diversion so that they, too, may have an opportunity to enjoy some of life's pleasures.

Though a careful census was taken of Danville last year, there may be reached through The Welfare Association in the municipal. Similar organizations have been formed in Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News, and Petersburg.

OUTSIDERS COME TO FORE IN RACING

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Thoroughbred favorites, most of which seem to be experiencing difficulties this spring, again fell by the wayside today when a rank outsider, Wild Aster, won the $5,000 spring handicap, and upset the hopes of several promising candidates for the rich Preakness stakes and Kentucky Derby.

Wild Aster, carrying the Greentree Stables colors and a 4 to 1 shot won by a half length in the six furlongs dash for three-year-olds from the Rancocas Stable's Bracadale, a top-heavy favorite because of his recent triumph over Sarazen. Tester, another Rancocas entry was third.

The time was 1:11 1-5.

COTTON IS UNABLE TO HOLD EARLY ADVANCE

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, May 7.—The cotton market after a fairly good advance in the first half of the session today lost all the gain and a little more in the second half, closing at the low points of the day May advanced forty points above the previous close during the morning and later eased off 33 points to 29.52. July advancing 30 points, and then declining 39 points to 27.63.

October traded up 22 points and declined to 23.72, or 26 points down from the high. The close showed a net gain for the day of seven points, on May but net losses of four to nine points on later months.

At the start, Liverpool cables were much better than due. The local market made a poor response at the opening but firmed up when the weather map was posted showing rather liberal rains in the belt and indications of colder weather in the West. The advance gathered force when an official forecast predicting frost in Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle was issued.

In the last part of the morning the market turned easier owing to the absence of sustained support and because of profit-taking by early buyers and in the late trading selling became fairly active and prices declined on somewhat more favorable crop news from the western belt and on advices from southern points reporting increase in mill curtailments. Active months closed at the low points of the day.

MIKE ROMAN BREAKS LEG

Baseball fans in this city will be interested, albeit regretfully, in the news of the injury of Outfielder Mike Roman, a former Piedmont League star now with Augusta, leader in the South Atlantic pennant chase. Roman on Tuesday had the misfortune to break his leg while sliding to a base in a game The injury will deprive the team of his services for the rest of the season, probably.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 8.—Relatively firm Liverpool cables were followed by a steady opening in the cotton market today. First prices were 3 to 13 points higher and after selling off several points after the call under realizing, the market steadied upon renewed demand from July shorts. Liverpool and commission house buying. May contracts advanced from 29.90 to 30.20 while July sold up to 28.35 and October to 24.55 or 15 points to 22 points net higher.

Private cables said better crop accounts were reaching Liverpool but that there was continental and trade buying and a good demand for the spot cotton arriving there.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—The cotton market opened steady and somewhat higher in sympathy with the better Liverpool cables than due. First trades showed gains of 18 points on May and 5 to 12 points on later months. Immediately after the opening call prices eased off 12 to 15 points on the issue of May notices in New York for 2,500 bales, but soon rallied again on unfavorable crop advices. July traded up to 27.86 and October to 23.87 or 15 to 23 points above the previous close. The market then ruled quite steady awaiting the posting of the weather map.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 8.—Stock prices moved irregularly lower at the opening of today's stock market with most of the standard industrials recording fractional recessions on initial sales. General Electric rdopped a point. Oils were again heavy but the rails held relatively firm.

Prices developed a more reactionary trend as trading progressed but recessions as a rule were held to a point or less. American Can, Baldwin and Studebaker each sold about a point below yesterday's final figures while Yellow Cab, Goodyear prior preferred, Atlantic Coast Line and Famous Players dropped a point or more. Interboro Rapid Transit up 1 1-4 and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico up 3-4, were among the few issues to move against the current trend. Foreign exchanges were weak, demand sterling showing an overnight drop of about two cents at $4 36 1-2.

Foley Reluctant About Accepting as Tammany Leader

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 8— The apparent reluctance of Surrogate James A. Foley to accept the leadership of Tammany hall, even with increased pressure brought to bear upon him, may cause the selection of a successor to Charles F. Murphy to be turned over to a select committee when the executive committee meets this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Surrogate Foley probably will be chosen if he will accept, although last night it appeared that only the urging of Governor Smith could change his mind

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

RADICALS

Hard times seem to make Americans conservative instead of radical. The Labor Year Book says the Socialist party in 1919 had a membership of 104,822. A period of business depression followed. The Socialists started 1924 with a membership of only 12,000. At the same date the Workers' Party had about 15,000 members.

On the other hand, how many people have so-called "radical" political beliefs privately, even if they don't register them openly? People do not always vote as they think. Lacking the courage of their convictions, they play safe.

ROYAL

The crown prince of Uganda, East Africa, is doing janitor work in Atlanta offices to help pay for his college education.

A good thing for the more than three million people he will rule later if he lives. From America he will take home democracy, along with schooling—and, even better, scientific and industrial knowledge to better his country and make it more prosperous.

The way is being paved for him. His father uses a flivver for a royal car. It's a changing world.

RENT

House rents, averaging the whole country, have increased 85 per cent. in the last 10 years. So reports National Industrial Conference Board. The estimate is extremely conservative.

On the other hand, the landlords are being paid in dollars that are worth only about 50 cents apiece in buying power. They're in the same boat as the rest of us. The so-called high cost of living is really just a shrinking of the dollar's buying power. Price have doubled. And every wage, every salary also should have doubled. Has yours?

EXCITEMENT

Nine-tenths of firemen die of heart failure, according to Fire Chief Daggett, of Springfield, Mass. He has been checking up. His estimate sounds a bit excessive.

But a fireman usually is expected to be on his way to the blaze 20 seconds after the alarm gong rings. Excitement and rush throw a heavy strain on the heart—not only in fire fighting, but in all ways of living. Heart disease is one of the leading death causes, and increasing swiftly. A result of living fast.

HOAX

The more than 20 nations that engaged in the World Fair had combined national wealth of 630 billion dollars in 1914. The wealth of these same nations is now 619 billions, Bankers Trust Co estimates.

That'd make it seem that the real cost of the war was only 11 billions, which is ridiculously low. The answer is that national wealth is figured in dollars that were worth 100 cents apiece before, the war, but worth only 50 cents now

If you salted away $1000 in the bank in 1914, it's worth only $500 now in buying power, and the other $500 has disappeared. How do the thrift preachers answer this?

RAY

Light, supposed to travel always in lines almost exactly straight, can be made to turn corners and even travel in a circle.

This queer thing is done by scientists of General Electric Co Does the discovery seem useless? Not so. It enables doctors to send the ultra-violet rays of sunlight down the throat, possibly into the lungs.

And this ultra-violet ray is the best agency so far discovered for battling tuberculosis. You will read more of this later, when the discovery is put to practical use.

Ky. to Have Three Electrocutions Fri.

EDDYSVILLE, Ky., May 8.—Whether the first triple legal electrocution in Kentucky is staged in the western state penitentiary here early Friday depended today upon possibility of presentation to the Supreme court of a plea for a writ of error in the case of Frank Thomas, 71, murderer and action of that high tribunal. The aged man, with a record of 3 men slain, faces the chair for the killing in Jefferson county of his friend and benefactor, Lee Arbegust

With Thomas in the prison death house are George Weick, sentenced to die for the murder, near Louisville, of William Oelke, a fellow farmer and Charles Weller, negro, given the death penalty for murder of two railroad guards in Breckenridge county

Bad Weather May Delay Hop-Off; No Trace of Martin

ON BOARD UNITED STATES CUTTER HAIDA AT ATKA ALASKA, May 8.—(By WIRELESS TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)—Snow and fog, it was feared, probably would prevent a hop-off today of three United States army air cruisers from Atka Island for Attu Island on the western end of the Aleutian Archipelago.

Everything was in readiness yesterday for the 530 mile jump but unfavorable weather conditions delayed the departure of the planes.

No word has been picked up by the coast guard cutter Haida's wireless as t othe whereabouts of Major Frederick L. Martin, missing commander of the expedition.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

(Thomson & McKinnon)

NEW YORK, 8—Such strength as appeared in yesterday's trade, the appearance of individual effort rather than a general demand. Leisurely covering by shorts during the past week has probably been responsible for the fairly steady market during that period. If this be true, the technical position of the market is correspondingly weakened and a change for the better in fundamensals is absolutely necessary to maintain present levels.

The lack of harmony between the executive and legislative branches of the government is as pronounced as ever. Simultaneous with the president's request for speedy enactment of essential legislation, including the much desired revised tax measure, the Senate adopted an obnoxious amendment to the tax bill to which the chief executive is opposed.

MORNING COTTON LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon

NEW YORK, May 8. — Cables strong, particularly July. Forecast for fair weather in all cotton states except showers in the Carolinas and Georgia followed by fair tomorrow.

No particular domestic cotton news this morning. Business continues light in Worth stret. The president of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association in convention at Charlotte said a turn for the better had come in their trade and that satisfactory business was ahead.

The market still seems a trading affair.
